VOL. XVII. NO. 171. TOLEDO, OHIO, THURSDAY, NOVEMBER 10, 1892. LAST EDITION. TWO CENTS.

WEATHER.
U. S. Department of Agriculture,
Weather Bureau.
Toledo, O., Nov. 10, 1892.

The area of high pressure central over the lakes yesterday morning has passed out into the Atlantic ocean. The one over Colorado has moved to the east; and south, and this morning covers the entire southern and western portions of the country, and will dominate the weather over the eastern half of the country during the next 48 hours.

The area of low pressure mentioned yesterday over the extreme northwest has remained stationary, and as yet has caused no change in the conditions over that section. The cyclone mentioned as being central in the Gulf of Mexico yesterday has moved up the Atlantic coast, and is now central off the Virginia coast. The passage of this storm was preceded by heavy rains over the south Atlantic states, and on the coast. High winds with rain or snow will prevail on the coast to-day.

During the past 24 hours light rain or snow has fallen over the entire eastern half of the country. Light snow is falling this morning in Tennessee, and over the lake region.

The temperature has risen over the west and northwest as far east as Lake Michigan; it has fallen over the southern states, and remained stationary in all other sections. It will grow warmer in all sections during the next 48 hours.

Local forecast for Toledo and vicinity for Thursday and Friday, fair, rising temperature.

E. A. HANNER. Observer.

On the one hand there's $500 in cash; on the other, there's a cure for your Catarrh. One of these two things has got to come to you—that's promised and agreed by the proprietors of Dr. Sage's Catarrh Remedy.

But, do you think they'd make any such promise if they weren't sure that you'd be cured? That has come to thousands, through this Remedy, when everything else has failed. By its mild, soothing, cleansing and healing properties, the worst chronic cases of Catarrh in the Head have been perfectly and permanently cured.

That's the reason they're willing to take such a risk. This is what they say, clearly and plainly: "If we can't cure your Catarrh, no matter how bad your case or of how long standing, we'll pay you $500 in cash." If they have faith enough to say that, isn't it safe for you to have a little faith, too?

FOLDING BEDS

You Can Do Almost Anything

With our Goshen folding bed. There used to be an idea that two into one wouldn't go; this bed upsets the notion completely. It doesn't, like the chameleon, change its color, but it does change its character, and it is as handsome as a bed at night as it is as a book-case in the day-time. It is one of the happiest combinations of modern ingenuity, and in an instant it turns your sleeping apartment into a handsomely appointed library. Perhaps you have an idea that this double advantage carries with it a double cost. It does not. Call and see it and learn the price.

TO THINK OF IT MAKES 'EM SAD.

AND THE BUCKEYE STATE, SO PROUD AND SOLEMN,

Has Joined the Great Democratic Column.

She Studied the Case From a Poor Man's View,

And Could Only Find One Thing To Do.

She Voted Hard And She Voted Fair,

And the Result Would Almost Curl Your Hair.

Republicans Had Fixed a Plan So Nice,

But Old "Gerry" Found He Could Cut No Ice.

Instead of Congressmen Six or Seven,

We'll Count 'Em Up to Ten or 'Leven.

Benjamin Harrison and Whitelaw Reid are worse beaten in the electoral college than any men who have run for president and vice-president since Horace Greeley's campaign in 1872. They will receive barely more votes than Greeley would have had had he lived until the college met.

Cleveland and Stevenson will receive more votes in the electoral college than any candidates have ever before had.

The transfer of Ohio to the democratic column will raise Cleveland's vote to over 300 and reduces Harrison's to little more than 100, and it looks at this writing as though Ohio had gone democratic.

The exact figures according to latest returns are: Cleveland, 303; Harrison, 109; Weaver, 32.

The latest reports indicate that the next United States senate will be divided as follows: Democrats, 42; republicans, 40; people's party, 6.

Late returns from Kansas are not so encouraging to the fusionists as were the first, but it has apparently voted for the Weaver electors. The returns are such, however, as to inspire the republicans to claim the state.

California, at first put down for Harrison, is now practically conceded to the democrats.

A claim is made to Nebraska by the republicans on the strength of the republican gains in the First district, but the state has undoubtedly chosen the Weaver electors.

Indiana gives Cleveland a majority of from 6,000 to 10,000.

States still in doubt are North Dakota, which is probably republican, and South Dakota, which is probably carried by the fusionists.

CHAIRMAN HARRITY.

He Gives an Expression of His Views on the Election.

New York, Nov. 10.—William F. Harrity, chairman of the democratic national committee, being asked for an expression of his views regarding the election of Cleveland and Stevenson, said:

"At the close of last week I stated my opinion that the people of the United States were with the democratic party upon the issues of this campaign, and recorded my opinion that their verdict on election day would be rendered in accordance with that sentiment. The leading issues of the contest from the first to the last have been the tariff and the force bill. The democratic current has reached not only the states of the south, New York, New Jersey, Connecticut, Indiana, Wisconsin, and Michigan, but has added to them at least the great state of Illinois with its 24 electoral votes.

"The president and vice president chosen yesterday will receive the votes of not less than 268 electors, with probably one more from Michigan, and possibly nine votes from California, which would raise the total number of democratic electors to 279. Without California Cleveland has a majority of more than 100 votes in the electoral college, backed by a larger majority of the popular vote than any democratic nominee has received during more than forty years. With one exception General Harrison's electoral vote is the smallest given to any candidate of the democratic or republican party during that period.

Of course the members of the democratic national committee are proud of this result, and appreciative of the commendation of their efforts by Mr. Cleveland when notified of his election. We have done our best in a fair and open fight, endeavoring to avoid being made the victims of delusion and never seeking to delude others.

"We think some mistakes, to which there was great temptation, have been avoided, and that some good points have been opportunely made. We claim no special merit, however, beyond having tried to faithfully serve our party and the public through energetic and harmonious action. Public sentiment in favor of Grover Cleveland, and which caused his nomination, in spite of formidable opposition within our party, elected him over the opposition of our adversaries. Mr. Stevenson has also proved an admirable candidate, and beyond question it is to the appreciation of his merits and efforts by those who knew him best that the wonderful success in Illinois is largely due."

WATERSON'S OPINION.

The Kentucky Editor Says Protection Has Been Repudiated.

Louisville. Nov. 10.—Mr. Watterson will say in his leading editorial to-morrow: The vote of Tuesday is primarily and decisively a verdict against the policy and theory of protection. Whatever else was done or left undone, in the canvass, the issue between a high tariff and a low tariff, a tariff of bounty and a tariff for revenue only, could be misunderstood alone by those who lacked the integrity and courage to meet it, or by those who had a corrupt motive for confuting and evading it.

The transaction in the national democratic convention on that point left nothing to do but construction. Overcome by strange terror of the truth the platform committee brought in a tariff plank which not merely sent the great idea of revenue reform to the rear, but actually asserted, in distinct terms, the keynote of the republican dogma of protection. The convention took this monstrosity by the throat and smote it, threw it out, and replaced it by a ringing declaration embodying the true democratic gospel that the government has no right of taxation except for the public purpose of raising money enough for its own support; that any other aim or design of a tariff is unconstitutional and unjust, and pledging the party, if returned to power, to stamp out the fraud of protection, as illustrated by the McKinley act and the usurping reciprocity treaties. It nominated Grover Cleveland, whom it regarded as the most distinguished and thoroughgoing representative of these declarations among living Americans. The response which Mr. Cleveland gave to the platform, that amended and revised, was conclusive and cheered the hearts of honest tariff reformers all over the land.

The answer of the masses is spontaneous and overwhelming. It puts doubting democrats to shame for their cowardice. It animates and reassures upright democrats in the courage of their conviction. It is an announcement to America and the world that the government of the United States has at last stepped out of the paths of bondage of protectionism and upon the broad, open highway of free trade with all mankind; no more dark closet reciprocity treaties; no more McKinley duties designed to check imports; no more absurd burthensome devices to make the rich richer and the poor poorer by taxing the necessaries of life; no more Chinese walls to restrict trade and commerce, nor Chinese gongs to alarm the ignorant and the foolish, but the right of every American to sell where he can sell to the best profit and to buy where he can buy cheapest, with all taxes paid into the public treasury, none diverted to build up private fortunes.

CLEVELAND'S ADVISERS.

Men Who May Help Him Run the Government.

Washington, Nov. 10.—Cabinets are already being made for Cleveland. It goes without saying that Whitney can have what he wants. It has been said that he would be made secretary of state in the event of Cleveland's election.

The impression here, however, is that he would prefer to go to England as minister. He has, ever since his marriage, been a figure in society, and it is said by his Washington friends that an important diplomatic post would be the most agreeable honor that Cleveland could confer on him. Whitney's dinners are celebrated in the United States; he may seek to celebrate them in London. If he does not desire the leading place in Cleveland's cabinet, it is thought that E. J. Phelps, of Vermont, may be tendered the office. Phelps is a strong man, has been abroad for this government in important relations, and ought to make an able secretary of state.

Ex-Secretary Fairchild, of New York, may be returned to his old post in the treasury. He was an "anti-snapper" and his appointment would represent that faction of the democratic party which is opposed to Hill. Don Dickinson, of Michigan, is slated in popular fancy for the postoffice.

Gray, it is understood, wants a situation. He has ceased to be a candidate for president, and having missed the vice-presidency, may be given the interior department.

Boise, if he is willing, can, no doubt, take Jerry Rusk's place at the head of the agricultural department. Harrity, chairman of the democratic national committee, must have something, too. Cleveland appointed him postmaster of Philadelphia in 1884, and Harrity, of course, can have his old place or one better after Cleveland goes back. Harrity is a lawyer, and is one of those persons who have been suggested for attorney-general. It would be in perfect harmony with recent events if Cleveland were to select southern men for the war and navy departments.

Campbell, of Ohio, is a cabinet possibility, and Larry Neal, the author of the plank declaring protection to be a fraud, will have to be taken care of.

Illinois will be carefully looked after by Cleveland, you may be sure, and several of his best gifts will go there.

If Flower is elected a senator from New York to succeed Hiscock it follows that Sheehan will become governor. Thus Sheehan and Flower will be fixed and satisfied. Flower has also been suggested for a cabinet position and Cockran for senator.

Republicans in this vicinity do not mourn very much because of the possible loss of the senate. It is felt that the democrats ought to be given he opportunity to show what they can do, now that they have one branch of congress and the presidency.

If they come into control of both branches of congress, they will, perhaps, with Cleveland's help, put wheat up to $7 a bushel and bring clothing down about 200 per cent.

INDIANA.

Latest Returns Show That the Democrats Will Carry the State.

Indianapolis, Ind., Nov. 10.—Complete returns have not been received from the state. Information in the hands of the chairman of both state committees is not sufficient upon which to base a definite estimate, but the chances are the state has gone democratic. The heavy average precinct gains shown last night which, if maintained, would have given the state to the republicans by 10,000, has fallen off, and is now a fraction of a vote below what would be required to give the state to Harrison. As the electoral ticket leads the state ticket by a considerable vote, there is little or no doubt of the election of the democratic state ticket.

Reurns from 74 out of the 92 counties in Indiana as reported to Chairman Taggart, of the democratic state committee, give democratic gains over 1888 of 8,743, giving Cleveland a plurality of 8,743 over 1888. The estimated gain in the other 18 counties is 3,400, making the democratic plurality in the state 9,743.

Indiana has joined the procession and is democratic in all branches. Returns are now sufficiently complete to give fairly reliable estimates on all the 92 counties of the state. They show that Cleveland has carried it by at least 7,000, and the entire democratic state ticket is elected by pluralities in the same neighborhood. The people's and prohibition parties did not come anywhere near their expectations. Eleven democrats and two republicans are elected to congress as follows: First district, A. H. Taylor, democrat; Second, John L. Bretz, democrat; Third, James B. Brown, democrat; Fourth, W. S. Holman, democrat; Fifth, G. W. Cooper, democrat; Sixth, H. U. Johnson, republican; Seventh, W. D. Bynum, democrat; Eighth, E. V. Brookshire, democrat; Ninth, Daniel Waugh, republican; Tenth, Thomas Hammond, democrat; Eleventh, A. N. Martin, democrat; Twelfth, W. F. McNagney, democrat; Thirteenth, C. G. Conn, democrat. The legislature is democratic by a majority of about 30 on joint ballot, assuring a democratic senator to succeed Turpie.

Beyond All Doubt.

Indianapolis, Nov. 10.—Returns from all over the state are coming in very slow. Unofficial returns from 55 counties show a steady democratic gain over the vote of 1888.

Cleveland's majority in the state, it is conceded by the republicans, will be not less than 5,000 and probably more.

This county (Marion) is solidly democratic by from 1,000 to 1,100.

The congresional delegation will be democratic by a good majority, although two districts, First and Tenth, are still in doubt.

YOU CAN BET ON IT.

Tammany Hall Deserves the Patronage.

New York, Nov. 10.—The Herald this morning says the impression is general that the federal patronage in this city under President Cleveland will be absolutely at the disposal of Tammany hall. A Herald reporter learned yesterday that some sort of a general understanding was reached between Mr. Whitney, Mr. Cleveland's representative in the matter, and Mr. Croker, whereby Tammany was promised "fair treatment." A large share of local patronage is Tammany's definition of "fair treatment" and although Mr. Cleveland has not said so there is no reason to suppose that it is not his definition also.

THE CLEVELAND HOUSEHOLD.

The President-Elect and His Wife in a Happy Frame of Mind.

New York, Nov. 10.—Telegrams and letters literally poured into the Cleveland residence at No. 12 West Fifty-first street yesterday. The bell was kept ringing from 7 a. m. by messenger boys and visitors, but the next president slept calmly on through it all and had left word that he was not to be disturbed under any circumstances. Mr. Cleveland had much need of the rest. It was nearly 5 o'clock before he retired. Mrs. Cleveland and Baby Ruth were up and dressed at the usual hour and the prattle of the baby and the caressing tones of the mother came up pleasantly from the breakfast room.

Mr. O'Brien, Mr. Cleveland's private secretary, said that Mrs. Cleveland was elated in her own quiet way at the result of the battle of the ballots, and that she had received the congratulations of several of her woman friends. Mrs. Cleveland was the central figure of a group of distinguished people in her drawing-room, while two telegraph instruments on the floor above ticked off the latest advices from all parts of the country.

The ladies remained until after 2 o'clock, when the election of Mr. Cleveland was assured. Mrs. Cleveland retired soon after they left. Mrs. Cleveland was in high spirits. She said simply: "Of course, we were all very much pleased with the news from the election, but Mr. Cleveland's pleasure was not demonstrative. He seemed to be simply in the enjoyment of perfect satisfaction."

When Mr. Cleveland finally made his appearance he found the accumulation of dispatches awaiting him, and with the aid of his secretary attacked his mail with vigor. Among the dispatches received by the ex-president bearing on the situation were those from the chairmen of the state committees of California, Illinois, and Wisconsin assuring him of democratic victory in those states.

At 10:30 o'clock Mrs. Cleveland went out driving. Mr. Cleveland denied himself to all representatives of the press, and begged to be excused this time from expressing any opinion on the result. Private Secretary O'Brien said that Mr. Cleveland was naturally pleased at the result, but had no statement to make.

At Mr. Stevenson's Home.

Bloomington, Ill., Nov. 10.—It was 2 o'clock when Hon. A. E. Stevenson and his family retired after carefully watching the returns and receiving the great multitudes of visitors who called to extend him their congratulations upon the democratic victory.

About midnight a delegation of democrats, wild with enthusiasm, numbering about a thousand, invaded his home. Every door in the house was jammed with people crowding in to grasp General Stevenson's hand. Those upon the outside who could not get in crowded up close as possible to the house. Such a number got upon the front porch that it gave way, and the dooryard is all trampled as if by droves of wild buffalo. General Stevenson arose at an early hour to get what additional returns were procurable and spent the day at his home receiving visitors and their congratulations and telegrams. Hundreds of telegrams have been pouring in upon him from all parts of the country. Yesterday afternoon General Stevenson sent his congratulations to ex-President Cleveland.

GOV. M'KINLEY.

He Will Take a Day Off to Study the Results.

Chicago, Nov. 10.—The Herald prints the following this morning:

Columbus, O., Nov. 9.—The Herald correspondent to-day asked Gov. McKinley what, in his opinion, was the cause of the utter rout of the republican party in Tuesday's election.

"Oh, I do not know," said he. "I have not had time to study the result. It is a great surprise to me."

The governor does not conceal the chagrin he feels over the unmistakable verdict of the whole country upon his tariff law. He has always said that the election that brought the enormous democratic majority to the house of representatives he was held "before the good effect" of his bill could be felt.

DOWN SOUTH.

Everything Is Democratic.

The Goose Hangs High.

Raleigh, N. C., Nov. 10.—The democratic chairman declares that Cleveland's majority in North Carolina will not fall below 20,000 and expresses the belief that the democrats nave elected all the congressmen.

Incomplete returns from 46 out of 66 counties place Cleveland's majority in Alabama at nearly 25,000.

Tennessee election returns are coming in rather slowly, but enough have been secured to insure the success of the democratic state and national tickets by from 35,000 to 55,000 plurality. The legislature is overwhelmingly democratic in both branches. The First and Second congressional districts go republican as usual, while the other eight are democratic.

Texas has elected Hogg for governor by a small plurality. Clark doubled his following since the anti-state convention canvass. Nugent, populist, for governor, probably gets 100,000 out a possible total of 390,000. The democratic candidates for congress are returned except possibly Gresham in the Galveston district.

OREGON.

The State Will Go to the Republican Column

Portland, Ogn., Nov. 10.—Two hundred and sixty-eight out of 636 precincts, which comprise two-thirds of the vote of the state, give Harrison 22,674; Cleveland, 8,897; Weaver, 18,880. Pierce, fusion candidate, runs largely ahead of his ticket, but still lacks several hundred votes of reaching the figures of lowest Harrison elector.

NEVADA.

Weaver Carried the State by Four Thousand.

Virginia, Nev., Nov. 10.—The silver party carries every county of the state of the state by from 100 to 500 plurality. Weaver's plurality is estimated by Nixon, chairman of the silver committee, at 4,000, and F. G. Newland's election to congress by 3,000 plurality. The silver party carries the legislature, which insures Stewart's return to the United States senate.

WASHINGTON

The Republicans Hold on to the New State.

Seattle, Wash., Nov. 10.—Estimates based upon nearly complete returns from King, Pierce and Spokane counties give McGraw, republican governor, about 2,000 plurality. The national ticket will probably go 5,000 for Harrison. Both republican congressmen are surely elected and the legislature will be republican.

CALIFORNIA.

It Will Cast Its Vote for Democracy.

San Francisco, Nov. 10.—Cleveland at midnight led Harrison by about 2,000. Nothing definite can be given out in reference to the legislature, but from present indications and estimates democrats will probably have a very small majority on joint ballot.

San Francisco, Nov. 10.—At 11 o'clock Chairman Popper of the democratic state committee claimed that California had gone for Cleveland by 8,000 plurality. He also claimed the legislature for the democrats and the election of four and possibly six congressmen. Chairman Meyers of the republican state committee concedes neither the legislature nor the state to the democrats.

MONTANA.

The Republicans Carried the State.

Butte, Mont., Nov. 10.—Returns from this state indicate the election of the republican governor and congressman. The legislature will probably be republican.

TENNESSEE WAR.

Dayton, Tenn., Nov. 10.—Later reports from the battle Tuesday in Bledsoe county, between the Tollets and Spaffords, say A. Spafford, his son James and Moses Tollet are dead and two other Tollets are badly wounded.

Iowa Was Saved.

Des Moines, Ia., Nov. 10.—Returns now coming in rapidly increase Harrison's plurality to 20,000. Anti-prohibition republicans have returned to the party in platoons, showing enormuos democratic losses everywhere.

A Good Eye.

Washington, Nov. 10.—Treasurer Nebeker telegraphs Acting Treasurer Whelpley: "Indiana is in the wreck. I will be home to-night."

DIED AT 50.

Kingston, N. Y., Noc. 10.—Dr. Arthur Paul Davis died here yesterday, aged 50. The remains will be taken to Rochester, N. Y. Dr. Davis was once a prosperous physician in Toronto, but in 1883 was sent to prison for life for a criminal operation, and was pardoned in 1891. His life sentence was a commutation of one of death by hanging.

LEFT TO THE ARMY.

London, Nov. 10.—The will of the late George Fowler, of Liverpool and Kansas City, and who left $25,000 each to the Salvation army and the African mission conducted by Bishop Taylor of the Methodist church of the United States, was filed at Doctor's Commons in accordance with the law regulating such instruments to-day. Although the will disposes of upward of half a million dollars in charity it will not be contested by the heirs.

STILL SUFFERING.

A Royal Company Dumped Into the Ditch.

Vienna, Nov. 10.—The Archduke Charles Louis, heir apparent to the throne, and the Archduchess are still suffering from the effects of their recent accident by being precipitated into a ditch during a heavy fog.

The supposed ontusion that the archduchess sustained on both legs has been proven to indicate several fractures of the small bones, and she will necessarily be confined to her room for some weeks to come. The driver of the carriage, who was very badly injured, and who was at first charged with gross negligence, has been completely exonerated after a rigid examination.

MARRIED.

A High Social Affair in London.

New York, Nov. 10.—A London dispatch says that the marriage of Lady Margaret Alice Seymour, daughter of the Marquis and Marchioness of Hertford, of the White Star Steamship line, and Mr. James Ismaw was solemnized this morning in the presence of several hundred representatives of the nobility.

The groom is a brother of J. Bruce Ismaw, who, some two years ago, married Miss Florence Schieffelin, at that time one of the reigning belles of New York city. The bride is 23 yars of age and remarkably handsome, while the groom is the fortunate possessor of great wealth. The couple will come to this country next month and remain in New York until spring.

CONGRESSMAN HARE.

He is Elected by Five Thousand Votes.

Upper Sandusky, O., Nov. 10.—(Special) —Congressman D. D. Hare figures his majority in the district over L. W. Hull at 5,000. In some counties he did much better than he figured on. In the county Cleveland gets about 800 majority. The vote polled was not as large as expected. The summary is not as yet known, as the supervisors are only half through on the official count. The entire county ticket is elected.

There is great rejoicing here over Cleveland's election and a great jollification will be held. Flags are displayed and democrats are overflowing with joy.

BUFFALO EXCITED.

Trying to Count Out a Democrat.

They Will Have a Hard Time of It in This Year of Our Lord.

Buffalo, N. Y., Nov. 10.—There is great excitement here over the official count of the vote for superintendent of education and district attorney.

On the face of the returns, as reported Tuesday night, the republicans elected their candidates for these offices by majorities of 400 to 700 with several districts to hear from which were not expected to overcome those gures.

As the official count progressed yesterday and to-day, errors were discovered changing the returns from several districts to such an extent that at noon today the democratic candidate for superintendent of education was declared to have 55 majority.

The count for district attorney is not complete yet, some districts being missing, but the democrats assert that the full returns will show their candidate elected.

The republicans yesterday started a cry of fraud, claiming that figures had been altered in a number of election districts, and at midnight a number of warrants were sworn out by republican leaders for the arrest of inspectors of election who signed blank returns, and for a number of others who had not at that time sent in their district returns in compliance with the law.

These warrants are returnable to-day before Justice Green, of the supreme court.

Considerable patronage is attached to both of the offices in question and neither side is inclined to surrender without a struggle.

WASHINGTON UNIVERSITY.

It Will Be Moved Into the Suburbs of St. Louis.

St. Louis, Nov. 10.—Arrangements have been definitely concluded for moving Washington university to the suburbs of the city in order to afford more extensive facilities, and to provide dormitories for students.

The latter are rendered necessary by the rapidly incerasing number of students from distant points, several gentlemen now in the university having homes in very distant states, and five or six are from the Mexican republic.

The buildings and equipments of the university cost about a million dollars, and owing to the remarkable increase in real estate values in St. Louis, sufficient money will be forthcoming from the sale of the present down-town site to provide very much larger and more adequate quarters five or six miles from the river.

BABY FARMING.

Great Excitement Reported at Sydney, N. S. W.

Sydney, N. S. W., Nov. 10—A few days ago the arrest of adult members of the family named Mackin who were suspected of being engaged in baby farming, was announced. The bodies of seven infants were found buried in the back yard of the house occupied by the family at McDonald, a suburb of this city.

The excitement caused by this discovery has been increased by the finding of the bodies of four more infants in the yard of a house formerly occupied by the Mackins at Redfern, another suburb.

WOW! WOW!! WOW!!!

Look at the New York Assembly.

Seventy-Three Democrats to Fifty-Three Republicans.

New York, Nov. 10.—Revised reports of assembly returns makes the assembly stand 73 democrats; 55 republicans.

MICHIGAN.

Both Branches of the Legislature Republican.

Detroit, Mich., Nov. 10.—The congressional delegation from Michigan in the Fifty-third congress will probably stand republicans seven, democrats five.

Following are the names of the successful candidates: First district, J. Logan Chipman, democrat; Second, Gorman, democrat; Third, Burrows, republican; Fourth, Thomas, republican; Fifth, Richardson, democrat; Sixth, Aitken, republican; Seventh, Whiting, democrat; Eighth, Linton, republican; Ninth, Moon, republican; Tenth, Weadock, democrat; Eleventh, Avery, republican; Twelfth, Stephenson, republican.

Both branches of the legislature have been won by the republicans.

BIG BLAZE.

Rockport, Me., Nov. 10.—A fire started in Camden at 2 o'clock thi morning, and before it could be subdued destroyed the entire business portion of the town, including the telegraph office. Particulars cannot yet be obtained.

TO SHUT OFF THE WORKERS.

Carmaux, Nov. 10.—The police have been ordered to suppress henceforth all meetings and demonstrations on the streets of workingmen or socialists, and to seize all flags except the tri-color.

BYRON RITCHIE

Is Confident of His Election.

He Is Watching the Count in Ottawa.

Some Strange Things Have Been Discovered at Port Clinto

The Bee has received the following from Port Clinton, which will be interesting news to democrats:

Port Clinton, O., Nov. 10.—I am satisfied of my election; am watching the canvass here; some strange things have been already discovered.

B. F. RITCHIE.

RITCHIE! RITCHIE!

Lucas County Gives Ashley Only 31,

Which Gives Ritchie a Plurality of 24 in the District.

It is Ritchie.

Fraud in Fulton and miscounts in Lucas won't help Ashley.

The latest is:

Lucas,	....	31
Wood,	....	489
Fulton,	....	821
Ottawa,	1,365	...
		1,341

Ritchie's majority, 24

These figures are not official, but democrats claim them to be substantially correct.

It is plainly evident that it will require the official vote to determine the matter.

IT IS SCRIBNER, TOO.

He Has a Majority of Nearly Six Hundred.

Returns as to the circuit judgeship are as follows, and there will not be much evrianc:

	Scribner	Wickham
Erie	316	—
Sandusky	937	—
Ottawa	1,450	—
Fulton	—	840
Wood	—	520
Lucas	—	202
Huron	—	550
	2,703	2,112

Scribner's majority, 591.

JUDGE PUGSLEY.

He Is Re-Elected by Over Three Hundred Majority.

Here are the semi-official returns from the common pleas district:

Ottawa	1,400	...
Sandusky	1,037	...
Erie	241	...
Lucas	....	2,396
Huron	....	600
Total	2,678	2,996

Pugsley's majority, 317.

COMING IN WAGONS.

Returns Grow Better With Each Hour.

Ohio Casts Her Vote for Cleveland.

Pennsylvania and Iowa About All That Are Left to the Republican Hopes.

Cincinnati, Nov. 10.—2:30—The Commercial-Gazette (republican) on the basis of complete returns from 54 counties and estimates on the remaing 34 counties in the state, estimate that Cleveland electors are chosen by 353 plurality, and that S. M. Taylor (republican) for secretary of state, has been elected. It also figures ten republican and eleven democratic congressmen.

9 a. m.—Republicans are claiming the state by 8 votes and democrats by 700.

Whoop!

Columbus, O., Nov. 10.—The democratic state committee has returns from all counties but 12 and claims that Cleveland has carried the state by 1,210 plurality. They also claim that Taylor, democrat, for secretary of state, is elected by a larger plurality.

The democrats have elected eleven and the republicans ten congressmen, the former carrying five republican districts, the Ninth, Fourteenth, Sixteenth, Eighteenth and Twenty-first, and defeating Ashley, E. G. Johnson, Poorman, Morgan and Hodgeh, the republican candidates.

Nebraska.

Omaha, Neb., Nov. 10.—As near as the meager returns show the Nebraska delegation in congress will stand as fowwols: First district, W. J. Bryan, dem.; Second, David Mercer, rep.; Third, George W. Mekeljohn, rep.; Fourth, E. J. Hainer, rep.; Fifth, W. A. McKeighan, dem.-ind.; Sixth, O. M. Kem, ind.

SENATOR HILL TALKS.

Gratified Over the Sweeping Victory.

Democrats Will Show What They Can Do.

Tammany Hall Deserves a Front Seat at the Inauguration Exercises.

Albany, N. Y., Nov. 10.—Senator D. B. Hill was waited upon by a reporter and asked to give his opinion on the results of the general election. Senator Hill said: "I am reluctant to be interviewed for two reasons. First, ever since the Chicago convention I have adhered to the rule to confine my political utterances to my public speeches. A few bogus interviews have appeared to which I have paid no attention, not caring to dignify them with a denial. Second, after a successful election, it seems to be the fashion for everybody to rush into print and claim some share of the credit for the victory. It was so in 1890, when we swept the country, and it will probably be so now. I prefer not to indulge in any unseemly scramble where those who do the least valuable work before an election usually shout the loudest afterwards. Nevertheless I am willing to say a few words in regard to the great victory lest my silence might be misconstrued."

"Did the result please you, Senator," asked the reporter.

"Every good democrat will heartily rejoice over the return of the democratic party to power in the nation," he replied. "The victory is most overwhelming and gratifying. It is not only a personal triumph of ex-President Cleveland and a just tribute to him, but it is a vindication of the democratic principles which he championed. The people were opposed to a force bill, and desired tariff reform and upon those two issues we have won the victory. Unquestionably the federal election issue kept several southern states with us which might otherwise have gone for the third party. I trust our victory will carry with it the control of the United States senate, which will enable us to place democratic legislation upon the federal statute books. We will then cease to be a mere opposition party, and can secure the remedial legislation which the people demand, and that opportunity will build up the democratic party and make it strong. We must carry out our pledges by reform of the tariff and reducing the federal taxation, not by harsh and extreme measures, but upon the conservative lines indicated in our platform and in the speeches of our candidates. If we shall secure the senate we can show the people the beneficent results of dmocratic policies, and the good we can accomplish will insure us the power for many years. I think the democracy would prefer a vigorous and aggressive policy, and to that end the existing federal election law should be repealed. It is a vexatious, arbitrary, and unnecessary measure, capable of great injustice and abuse, and, in the hands of unprincipled officials may become an instrument of aggression. The manner in which it was sought to be used against us by our opponents on election day furnishes an abundant argument for its repeal."

"Senator, what do you think of the result in New York?" was asked.

"I am particularly gratified with the glorious result in this state," he replied. "The state organization of the party as well as the organization in nine-tenths of the counties, were in the hands of friends—those who loyally supported my claims at Chicago, and I was extremely desirous that an excellent showing should be made, and I am more than satisfied. The organizations everywhere supported Mr. Cleveland with great earnestness and good faith and with same loyalty as has characterized their political actions towards democratic candidates. The democracy of the Empire state is proud of its intrepid and matchless organization, which is well nigh invincible. A few counties did not do as well as expected, but such results are only exceptions to the general rule and are incident to politics. I regret that Chemung county, which with hard work, maintained so excellent a record for so many years, should not have done better, but local causes arising out of last spring's municipal election, when the republicans and some independents, so-called, unexpectedly carried Elmira and secured the control of the city in their hands, with all its patronage, combined with an immense republican corruption fund expended this fall against our whole ticket, national as well as local, led to the defeat of both tickets in the county, the local ticket faring no better than the national ticket. But aside from a few places every locality did reasonably well, and democrats of all factions nobly did their duty and tried to win an overwhelming victory. I am of course delighted with the magnificent work of Tammany hall and the Kings county democracy. Their praises are upon every one's lips to-day, and they have endeared themselves to the democracy of the whole country by their devotion to our cause in this crisis."

"Have you received any telegrams congratulating you upon the victory in this state, senator?" was the next question.

"Yes, hundreds of them from all parts of this state and from many other states."

"May I see them?"

"Please excuse me, I prefer not to furnish them for publication. I am a democrat and simply did my duty in the campaign and claim no especial credit for anything which I may have done to aid the grand result. The gratification of winning, together with the good opinion of my democratic friends in this and other states, is enough for me. Let all the credit be given to the democratic organizations of the state and to the gentlemen who associated with them in the active conduct of the campaign. I do not underestimate the importance of this national victory. It means continued democratic ascendency if the party shall be true to itself and the country; it means the speedy dissolution of the republican party; it means a revenue tariff, reduced taxes, home rule, free elections, economical administration of public offices, and higher standard of official action. It means peace and prosperity to the country."

"What's that you have ordered, Jack?"

"A wineglass full of Johann Hoff's Malt Extract. It's the finest beverage in the world for indigestion. I take it regularly with my meal."

Indigestion is a much prevalent American disease. Too much starchy food will cause it. Rich food and sedentary habits also. Johann Hoff's Malt Extract is a positive safeguard. It increases the energy of the stomach and the intestinal canal, and stimulates the secretion of the proper quantity of diluting fluids. It assists nature. Eisner & Mendelson Co., Agents, New York. Beware of counterfeits. The genuine must have the signature of "Johann Hoff" on the neck of every bottle.

NEW YORK CITY'S VOTE.

Thomas F. Gilroy Elected by the Largest Plurality Ever Given a Candidate for Mayor.

New York, Nov. 10.—Mr. Cleveland's plurality in New York city and county was 76,947, or 3,086 more than that of Mayor-elect Thomas F. Gilroy. The entire city and county ticket of the democrats is elected. Every assemblyman except one out of the 30 in the city and county is elected. The solitary one is a county democrat who was indorsed by the republicans. Every aldermanic candidate is elected. Every congressman is elected. Mr. Cleveland's plurality was greater than Grant's 60,578 over Seymour in 1868, but Mayor-elect Gilroy's plurality over Candidate Einstein's, 73,861, exceeds by nearly 20,000 the greatest majority secured by any mayoralty candidate in 24 years, that of 54,274 in 1868.

AT THE ORPHANAGE.

A Visit Paid to the Little Ones at St. Vincent's.

What a Bee Saw There One Day—Described by Her in an Interesting Manner.

Unfree'd, the calls of nature she obeys,
Not led by profit, nor allured by praise.

What a world of good, what efforts to alleviate pain—both physical and moral. What divine blessings are bestowed upon the helpless, by the sisters of charity, (Gray nuns) of Montreal, may be fully realized if one takes pains to visit St. Vincent's hospital and orphanage.

A Bee was admitted to the latter named building by a wee Miss, who showed us in to a neat but plain parlor, where another three-year-old, with dancing black eyes and baby beauty, greatly amused us by her quaint sayings and manner, until a sister made her appearance and kindly showed us about and explained the workings of the institution.

St. Vincent's orphan asylum was incorporated in 1875, and is conducted by the Sisters of Charity.

Children, from mere babes up, are admitted when they have been deprived of their parents, or when they have been less fortunate and are brought into the world illegitimately.

Motherly, indeed, are the dear women who give their lives for the benefit of the unfortunate, and who have the ability to rear a large family, although, many times it is difficult to make "the ends meet," for there are the mouths of 73 boys and 50 girls to prepare food for and the same number of little bodies to clothe and take care of, beside the numerous other things which it requires to make them healthful, comfortable and wise.

We were first taken to the school room where many of the tiny girls, with happy, bright faces, and dressed in little gowns and gingham aprons, gave one an immediate impression of systematic and excellent discipline.

A charming child, 4 years old, with bonny blue eyes and golden brown hair, astonished us with her genuine smartness and disposition to entertain—she counted, recited and sang, the rest of the children joining in the chorus.

Some of them had little work bags, in which they kept their fancy work, for they are taught to sew, beside all other common branches, and many of the samples would do credit to a much older person.

We were next shown the chapel and then a room, called the infirmary, where one little girl, but 13 years of age, was wasting away with consumption.

Two small boys, who had been ill with fever, were playing cat's cradle.

There is very little sickness in the orphanage, and it has not suffered an epidemic for many years past.

The wash-room, with a long sink and plenty of towels, suggested cleanliness.

The dormitory, which contained ever so many little beds of snowy whiteness, made food for imagination, for just think of so many little fellows scampering away to bed, or forming a regular nightgown brigade, marching to the sweet land of dreams.

When the children arrive at an age deemed proper, places are found for them, perhaps on farm or otherwise, where, with their good training, they usually make good men and women.

Many of the girls become so attached to the home that they beg to remain, and often, in consequence, become nuns.

We next visited St. Vincent's hospital, which is conducted under the same management, and were shown into a general reception room, where we awaited Mother Superior's coming.

A great responsibility rests upon this woman, who with sympathetic nature and quiet gentle way told us of incidents relative to the work and patients which come under their care.

The hospital was opened November 12, 1855. It has a medical staff of 26 of the best physicians in Toledo, who are devoted to their patients and who treat the charity patients without remuneration, and sometimes without the thanks from the patients themselves.

But various, indeed, are the teachings of life; the human spirit must meet its trials and its disciplines, whether it come in the bare crown of thorns to grace the brow of martyrdom, in the asp-like sorrow that coils itself among the richest gems, or in the rosy garland, whose blushing sweetness whispereth not of the thorns that lie beneath. And so the sisters are occasionally called upon to bear with calm dignity—ingratitude—which is rather the exception than the rule.

Their work is active and energetic, and success peculiarly characterizes the movement of the organization.

At times, many sailors find refuge here, where the marine surgeon attends to their ailments.

Then there are paid patients—that is patients who come from other cities and our own to have surgical operations performed.

There is at present a lady from Chicago in its precincts for this purpose.

The young ladies of the flower mission send many a ray of happiness into the hearts of the invalids by bringing beautiful and bright flowers to the hospital. The act is appreciated.

The Mother Superior mentioned their predicament at the time of the tunnel accident on the Lake Shore, which occurred not many months ago.

Without a warning ambulances and carriages were before their door with the burned unfortunates, who pleaded in pitying tones, "For God's sake let me in." Sad, sad indeed were the days and nights that followed, and truly creditable was the kind watchfulness and tender mercies of the sisters who were thus besieged with the result of a horror.

Very appropriate did the quotation strike me which met my gaze as I passed into the general reception room, and which said: "Honor thy Physician for the need thou hast of him, for the Most High has created him." M. B. N.

JUDGE GEDDES DEAD.

A Man Well Known in Ohio Politics Passes Away at His Home in Mansfield.

Mansfield, O., Nov. 10.—Judge George W. Geddes, ex-congressman from the various districts in which Richland county has been, and who was elected to four consecutive terms in congress, beginning in 1878, died at his home in this city yesterday afternoon after a prolonged illness. The deceased was born in Knox county in 1824 and located here in 1845 for the practice of law, and has resided here continuously since that time. He was elected common pleas judge in 1856 and served two terms. In 1868 he was again elected judge. In 1872 he was the democratic nominee for supreme judge of Ohio. His entrance into congressional politics was marked by his nomination as a compromise candidate in 1878, in the old Fifteenth congressional district, after 1,857 ballots had been taken. He was reelected to the next three congresses, his most signal success being in 1882, when he defeated Rollin A. Horr, of Lorain county, in a strong republican district. Since his retirement from congress in 1886 he has practiced law in this city. The funeral will occur next Saturday at 2 o'clock.

CHARGED WITH MURDER.

St. Marys, O., Nov. 10.—(Special)—Marshal Drees, of Minster, this county, who shot and killed Curtis McVay, an alleged horse thief, near St. Henry, Mercer county, last week, was tried before Justice Landfair, at Celina, yesterday and was bound over to court in the sum of $4,000, charged with murder in the first degree.

THE GILCHER DISASTER.

The Collision Theory Is Gaining Ground.

Believed in Some Circles That She Struck a Boat in the Storm.

Cleveland, O., Nov. 10.—The following dispatch attracted a good deal of attention in vessel circles yesterday: "The steambarge Hattie B. Pereue has arrived from South Manitou Island. Captain Stuffelbaum made careful examination of all the wreckage on the island. 'I found,' said he, 'the strong backs which held the canvas covers of the Gilcher lifeboats among the wreckage. They had been cut in two with an ax, which clearly indicated that the crew had rushed to the lifeboats in great haste, and did not have time to pull off the canvas covering in the ordinary way. From the fact that the lifeboats have not been found since, it seems probable that the Gilcher went down before there was time to free them from the davits. The wreckage of the steamer and the schooner lie on the beach not a hundred feet apart.'

"Most of the lumber ashore from the Ostrich is not broken up, but some of it looks as if it had been crushed the same way as would occur in a collision. Captain Stuffelbaum reports that the capsized schooner sighted by the steambarge George Dunbar, 35 miles southwest of Point Betsey, last Saturday, could not have been the Ostrich. The captain thought that the wreck was of a schooner carrying about 150,000 feet of lumber."

This story, taken in connection with that told by Captain Buchanan, of the schooner Seaman, that he passed the steamer while she was being held up into the wind, that he could see nobody on deck, and that no attention was paid to his signals, seems to leave little room for doubt in the minds of vesselmen that the loss of the Gilcher was due to a terrific collision with the schooner Ostrich, the wreck of which lies near by on North Manitou Island. Their idea of the disaster was that the steamer was struck by the schooner, which was flying before the gale; that the crew of the Ostrich clambered aboard the steamer, while their own vessel began to go to pieces; and that the steamer sustained damage to an extent that was not at first realized by captain or crew, who tried to stop the leaks temporarily, and only fled to the boats when it was too late. This would account for the Gilcher being seen at a standstill and apparently in trouble, and also for the fruitless search for the bodies of the schooner's crew, while her deck load of lumber seems to have washed ashore almost intact.

OTHELLO THIS EVENING.

Mr. Potter of Texas and Miss Roarer on Their Way.

Gus Hill's Company Is Giving a Good Show at the People's and the Wonderland Is Drawing Crowds.

This evening Robert Downing, the tragedian, will appear at Wheeler's in Othello. He will be supported by Eugenia Blair and a strong company. To-morrow evening the Gladiator will be presented. Downing is a favorite here, and both performances will be largely attended.

Miss Roarer Coming.

Next week Miss Ullie Akerstrom will put on a new comedy-drama written by herself, called Miss Roarer. It has been pronounced an unqualified success. It is perfect, a powerful story well told by its players, embodying every adjunct and detail to make it interesting. It is full of action, prolific in comedy and dramatic climax, and furnishes an ample supply of exciting incidents an comical situations. A representation of a genuine fox hunt is portrayed upon the stage, in which Miss Akerstrom is seen mounted on her trained horse Gyp, accompanied by mounted hunters, all in an animated pursuit of the fox; an intensely exciting scene.

Mr. Potter, of Texas.

"Mr. Potter, of Texas," will be presented at Wheeler's, Tuesday evening next.

It is a pleasing story pleasantly told; it mingles a breath of the exhilerating breezes of the wide spreading prairies of the "Lone Star" state with the perfumed air of the drawing room of the English aristocracy; it tells a story of the love and disappointment of Lady Annerly, a petted daughter of England's most exclusive society; it tells the story of the love and happiness of our true, noble, outspoken American girl; it tells the story of the Hon. Samson Potter, of Texas, who was scalped by the Comanches; his rough, open-hearted, quaint and humorous ways; it tells the story of a Scotland Yard detective and his dog, Snapper; it tells the story of a ticket-of-leave man unjustly confined in the penal colonies of Australia; it tells the story of one high in society and affairs of government, who was at one time a bank defaulter. Taken all in all, "Mr. Potter, of Texas," is the greatest play of the day.

Gus Hill's Stars.

Gus Hill's Vaudeville Stars are giving a big show at the People's. There are some 20 specialty people in the company, and there is plenty of good music, dancing and comedy. Fred J. Huber, an old variety favorite in these parts, is the business manager.

At the Wonderland.

The Wonderland is drawing well this week. Hop o' My Thumb, the Nova Scotia midget, astonishes people. They perhaps expect to see a small man, but every one is surprised when they gaze on Hop. He stands on the lecturer's hand to be exhibited and can step in an ordinary hat.

Further Statistics of Divorce in Arapahoe County.

"What, therefore, God hath joined together let not man put asunder."

Yet married people are being parted in Arapahoe county at the rate of one couple to about every four or five couples that are married in spite of this good old injunction, as old as the New Testament itself. This is no wild statement, but it is a statement based on facts and statistics. Furthermore, for every five couples married in this county there are two applications for divorce.

People of Europe looked with horror upon Hamburg when it became known that one divorce was granted to about every 19 marriages, but Denver can discount Hamburg and then beat her in the game of divorce.

For the year ending Oct. 27 just 1,443 marriage licenses were taken out in the county clerk's office, and it is presumed that a couple were married on every one of these.

There were about 600 divorces applied for in the county court alone during that time. Placing the two totals together, this fact is arrived at, 43 per cent. as many divorces as marriages were applied for, or, in other words, there were two divorces applied for for every five marriages, and yet some people say the divorce laws do not need to be changed.

This is according to the Times record, and according to the same record about 21 1-2 per cent of the divorces applied for were granted, but then, if the official figures were known, the percentage of those granted would be much higher, for many divorces are applied for and granted which are never made public.

During the previous year there were 1,541 marriage licenses taken out. The number of divorces applied for that year was smaller than last year, but if the divorce business continues to increase as it has during the last 12 months, next year we may expect to find a divorce record in this country of one divorce applied to every marriage; but, then, the legislature may get in its work in the meantime or something else may create a much needed change in the divorce methods.

CONQUESTS OF SCIENCE.

Chemistry Declares That Dirt Is Only Matter in a Wrong Place.

Surely I have established my thesis that dirt is only matter in a wrong place. Chemistry, like thrifty housewife, economizes every scrap. The horseshoe nails dropped in the streets are carefully collected, and reappear as swords and guns. The main ingredient of the ink with which I now write was probably once the broken hoop of an old beer barrel. The chippings of the traveling tinker are mixed with the parings of horses' hoofs and the worst kinds of woollen rags, and these are worked up into an exquisite blue dye, which graces the dress of courtly dames, writes Lord Lyon Playfair in the North American Review.

The dregs of port wine, carefully decanted by the toper, are taken in the morning as a seidlitz powder to remove the effect of the debauch. The offal of the streets and the wastings of coal gas reappear carefully preserved in the lady's smelling bottle, or are used by her to flavor blanc manges for her friends. All this thrift of material is an imitation of the economy of nature, which allows no waste. Everything has its destined place in the process of the universe, in which there is not a blade of grass nor even a microbe too much, if we possessed the knowledge to apply them to their fitting purposes.

STORY OF TWO WOMEN.

What the Trouble Was and How It Resulted.

What Each Has to Say About This Most Interesting Matter.

Something Never Before Equalled In Our Experience.

The story of each is brief, but both are eloquent with true feeling and gratitude, given in their own words.

The first, Mrs. E. S. Bogart, of the Baptist Home, Sixty-eighth street, New-York city, is as follows:

"For eight years I have been constantly under the care of doctors, but found no relief, nor, from what the doctors told me, did I expect to get any better. I was convinced that they did not understand my case, so I though I would try Dr. Greene's Nervura blood and nerve remedy, and the result has been truly wonderful. I now feel in better health than for the last 20 years.

Mrs. E. S. Bogart.

"During all this time I had been suffering with malaria, heart disease, kidney and liver complaints, nervous prostration and sleeplessness. For the three months before taking this wonderful remedy, I had been confined to my room, and most of the time to the bed. I feel, with the blessing of God, Dr. Greene's Nervura blood and nerve remedy has given me a new lease of life and health, and that I am cured of all my troubles. I have a great desire that others may be benefited as I have been, and take every opportunity to recommend it to the sick."

Mrs. Oliver Wilson, Northboro', Mass., tells the second of these two interesting stories:

"I was suffering from nervousness," she says, "caused by female weakness and nervous prostration. I was so nervous and weak I could not go up a common pair of stairs without stopping to rest, and was troubled to sleep at night. I took Dr. Greene's Nervura blood and nerve remedy, and have obtained my old elastic step around the house, to the surprise of my friends. After creeping round for two years, hardly able to do anything, it has proved a boon to me truly. I know of many others whom it has cured and who speak most highly in praise of it."

Mrs. Oliver Wilson.

How anybody who suffers from disease can read these two marvellous cures and not be influenced to use this truly great remedy immediately, is beyond our understanding. Druggists keep it for $1, and it is a vegetable medicine and perfectly harmless. It must not be confounded with what are known as patent medicines, for it is a physician's prescription, the discovery of the great specialist in nervous and chronic diseases, Dr. Greene, of 35 W. 14th street, New York, who can be consulted by all free of charge, personally or by letter.

His wonderful remedy will cure you if you will use it.

Prof. Lee House.

Prof. Lee House, who is editing the Afro-American Standard, in Detroit, is in this city, and is very jubilant over the result of the national election. A few days ago Lee was charged with being a preacher by the Bee, and he rises to a question of privilege and denies the allegation. Lee is a politician, and a good one at that, and puts in good work for the democratic ticket.

A Case of Blood Poisoning.

Word came to the police station this morning that a man was lying at Van Buren's stables on Erie street half dead with some sort of blood poisoning. An officer was sent to the stables. The man proved to be James H. Lawrance. He is broken out all over, and is in bad shape. He will be turned over to the infirmary directors.

Wood Pleads Guilty.

In common pleas curt to-day Henry Wood, charged with burglary, entered a plea of guilty.

Wood, it will be remembered, was arrested in the postoffice by Detectives Carew and O'Brien on the morning after the Van Hoesen robbery with some of the stolen property on his person. He was connected with the Tip-o-Tip gang.

To Pay an Election Bet.

Frank Hood, clerk at F. Gradolph's, 124 Summit street, in payment of an election bet, has fixed Saturday night at 8 o'clock for the time he will begin at Cherry street to wheel John F. Koegel—commonly called "Jake"—a fellow clerk, to the place at which they both work. "Jake" has already provided himself with a white hat and a lot of Cleveland flags.

They Tell the Story.

The democratic banner on Summit street is as clean and bright as the day it was put in place, while its republican friend, just down the street, is a total wreck. Harrison's picture is gone, Ashley's name is torn off, part of the other lettering is hanging in shreds, and the whole is dirty It is said that children and fools tell the truth, but it looks as if banners might be added to the saw.

Clothing, food or attention will be gratefully received. The home is located at 124 Illinois street and is well worthy the encouragement and help of the public in general.

She Punished Herself.

Carrie Lillie got good and drunk yesterday and then got into the police station. While in a gruesome cell she tried to make merry by lighting a cigarette. She lit a match and immeditely saw a dozen. Somehow or other they danced about and wouldn't hit the cigarette, but she did succeed in setting fire to her dress. The turnkey rushed in and found her in flames. He threw water on her and extinguished them. The woman was burned badly and was released, having been punished sufficiently for her misdeeds.

He Loses His Mustache.

As a Bee entered a Monroe street flour and feed store this morning a troubled look was upon the face of the prominent young proprietor. He was gently stroking his gold-hued mustache and occasionally viewed it in a near-by looking glass. The cause of the gloom was soon made manifest for our friend had bet his mustache on Harrison and he says "he looks like a monkey without it." He was anxiously awaiting the coming of the victor, who would hie him away to the barber shop where he would be made to look like the bare-faced republican that he is.

The Builders' Exchange—Members.

The members of the Toledo Builders' Exchange held a social session last evening the first since the organization.

The event was a very clever surprise perpetrated by the entertainment committee. Notices of a meeting of a very important nature were sent to all the members, and scenting trouble, there was a big attendance. There was trouble, but it was in eating up the good things that were spread on big tables. A big time was had. The exchange has decided to give a banquet about December 20 at the Pythian Castle.

Sunday School Anniversary.

The Sunday school connected with St. John's M. E. church held its anniversary exercises last night. The weather had a tendency to keep many of the little ones away. The primary department, under the direction of Mrs. J. W. Skeldon, rendered some musical selections, and little recitation gems were given. Brief but interesting addresses were made by the superintendent, Mrs. M. R. Davis, and the pastor, Rev. Dr. Fish. Following the program the classes repaired to the parlors, where ice cream and cake were served and a social time had. The evening was delightfully spent.

The W. H. M. Society of St. Paul's Church.

The Woman's Home Missionary society of St. Paul's M. E. church met yesterday afternoon in the church parlors with the president, Mrs. C. M. Wertz presiding.

The secretary and treasurer's report was listened to with much interest, it showing that the society was in a prosperous condition.

The work committee reported comforters tied; two barrels of clothing sent to Rev. A. D. Teeler, of Indian Territory, and clothing ready to send to Nellie Robson at Thayer home, Atlanta, Ga.

The ladieds decided to hold a bazaar in the church parlors, December 14, and will serve supper upon the same occasion.

ROUND CITY HALL.

Adjourned Meeting of Council—Several Committees Meet.

This evening the city council will hold an adjourned meeting to try and dispose of the ordinances they were unable to put through last Monday night because the requisite two-thirds of the members were not present to suspend the rules. The officers of the city are a little anxious, for the reason that they cannot get their salaries till the proper ordinance for their payment is passed.

The three committees on streets, sidewalks and sewers should meet this evening.

J. J. Duffy this morning got a permit to build a $400 frame house on lot 263, W. S. Williams' addition, fronting on Baker street.

Democrats about the city hall are jubilant, and republicans correspondingly depressed, taking little comfort from Moxie's capture of the Second ward.

DAMAGES DEMANDED.

Suits Against the Pennsylvania Railroad Company.

Two suits were filed yesterday in the United States court against the Pennsylvania Railroad company for damages for personal injury to plaintiffs by reason of negligence on the part of agents of the company. Each case comes up on transcript from a common pleas court. One in which Frank Applegate is plaintiff, from Wyandot county; the other, in which Adam Troutman is plaintiff, from Hardin county. The reason of removal to the United States court is that the defendant corporation is non-resident in the state of Ohio.

HA! HA!

The Later the News the Better It Sounds.

Cincinnati, Nov. 10.—A special to the Post from Columbus at 1:30 p. m. says: For some reason no response comes to the repeated telegrams sent by the state democratic committee to the missing counties, Geauga, Monroe and Vinton, asking for full returns. These telegrams have been sent to nearly every democrat of prominence in the counties, but they are probably waiting for some back township, not knowing that much depends upon the returns, after summing the known county results, and estimating those yet out. Ex-Gov. Campbell said at noon: "Well, it shows that were are pretty sure of the state by 1,200."

S. M. Taylor is running slightly behind the electoral ticket everywhere, so he is probably defeated if the democratic figures on the national ticket are correct.

At the republican headquarters they are only figuring on the vote for S. M. Taylor. They figure out a plurality for him of 1,470 and claim that the electoral ticket will have about the same plurality.

Alen, for supreme court clerk, runs ahead of his ticket and may be elected, though the rest of the republican ticket is defeated. Poorman is defeated for congress by 151 votes.

LATE MARKETS.

Bradstreet's makes the visible supply of wheat increased last week 6,0[illegible]00 bu. Oats decreased 186,000 bu.

The receipts of wheat at Toledo to-day are 22,668 bu less than on the corresponding Thursday in 1891.

The receipts of northwest wheat are 177,899 bu less and the receipts at five other western points are 65,050 bu more than in 1891.

Prices of Agricultural Products.

There is obviously a tendency towards better prices of corn. The basis is claimed to be, not only a large decrease in the nominal production, but on still later evidence of yield, furnished by the huskings. The corn in many large vicinities is reported to be much lighter weight than usual. This may all be true and may be be a good basis for an advance in price, but temporarily, at least, the price depends upon receipts and home demand. If the remainder of November should result in weather as good as we frequently have in the west in this month, we shall get a movement of corn that may depress the price.

Provisions have also had an upward look of late. Of course the corn surplus has an influence on provisions, and according to Mr. C. Wood Davis and Erastus Wiman, the consumption of food increases in greater ratio than production.

The point we want to make out of all this is that corn, oats and provisions are not to assume a higher level of value, and wheat remain in the dirt. As we have heretofore said, the stocks in the United Kingdom are large, but the excess is little more than the decrease in their 1892 wheat crop. Stocks on the continent are steadily decreasing. Prices may not advance much unless the weather should check the receipts, but the elements are not all on the bear side as we look at them.

Quite a reaction in the price of wheat has occurred to-day in Chicago, where yesterday there was evidently a little too much steam on. The market has been lower all day. Bradstreet's statement of the enormous increase of near 6,000,000 bu. wheat doubtless had some effect.

Corn has been fairly maintained. It seems to us a good deal of a weather market, just now, in this cereal.

In Toledo a fair amount of trading was 75 1-2c, a loss of 3-8c. December at 76 1-2c, a loss of 5-8c. May at 83 5-8c, a loss of 5-8c. December corn at 50 5-8c, a loss of 3-8c. May at 53 5-8c, a gain of 1-8c. November oats at 36c, a loss of 1-2c.

In Chicago November wheat closed at 71 3-8c: December at 72 3-4c, a loss on each of 1-2c. May at 78 1-2c, a loss of 5-8c. November corn at 42 1-4c, a loss of 1-4c. December at 42 1-2c, a loss of 1-8c. May at 42 1-2c, a loss of 1-8c. November oats at 31 1-4c, a gain of 1-8c.

In Toledo a gair amount of trading was reported for may delivery and in other futures a very lighter business. There is nothing new in the deal, except what is reported above. Prices are 1-2c lower at the close. On the call December sold at 73 3-4c and May at 80c. On the regular board the first sales of December were at 73 1-2c, closing at 73 3-4c. May sold at 79 1-2 to 79 7-8c, and to 79 3-8c, closing at 79 3-4c. Cash wheat was in a little better request. No. 2 soft sold at 72 1-2 to 73c, a gain of 1-2c. No. 3 soft sold at 65 to 65 1-2c, a gain of 1c. No. 4 soft at 55c. Rejected No. 1 at 54c. White No. 2 at—. Wab. hard No. 2 at 68c, No. 3 at 63c.

Corn—No. 2 for May at 47 1-2c. Cash 43c, No. 3 at 43 1-2c. Rye—No. 2, 53c; No. 3, 48 1-2c. Oats—No. 2, 32 1-2c

Clover seed was fairly active, and futures were a shade higher. On the call March sold at $7.50 to $7.47 1-2 and $7.50. On the regular board prime medium sold at $7.30; January at $7.40 to $7.42 1-2; March at $7.47 1-2 to $7.50; No. 2 at $7.05 to $7.15; rejected at $6.75.

Don't disfigure the lawn with a coat of coarse barn manure. Instead, make an application of dry, hard wood ashes, that will at the first rainfall, however slight, fall down in among the spires of the grass, forever out of sight. The application will be easier, the cost less, while the effect will be equally productive of a thick, green turf, and without the unsightly covering of the stable manure.

Cleveland.

Cleveland, Nov. 10.—The new port of Conneaut, where new docks have been built for ore and coal, will take a large portion of next season's business in ore. The expenditure on new docks of the Pittsburg, Chenango & Lake Erie company has already amounted to $250,000, and the new railway has the best of connections for the Pittsburg coal and furnace district.

Chicago.

Chicago, Nov. 10.—The only corn shipper on the market for boats to-day was John B. Lyon, who is supposed to have had 5,000,000 or 6,000,000 bushels of corn delivered to him in the late deal of the clique. He was wanting all the boats he could get at 2 1-2 cents to Buffalo, but when vesselmen began asking 2 3-4 cents he told them that he would let the grain remain here rather than ship it at higher lake rates. Vessel brokers ceased the attempt to force an advance and all business was done at the old figures.

Cleveland.

Cleveland, Nov. 10.—If brokers had Ashland tonnage to offer they could probably get better than $1.30 on iron ore to Ohio ports. There is an excellent demand for Escanaba boats at 90 cents. Coal for shipments is very scarce.

PERSONAL MENTION.

Mr. and Mrs. S. C. Reynolds went to New York last evening.

Mr. and Mrs. Gressler, of Lagrange street, were given a very pleasant surprise by a large party of friends Tuesday evening. Among those present were the Misses Sadie Blum, Lizzie Benner, Kate Kaiser, Mame Baumkratz, Ella Burmester, Anna Gressler, Katie Gressler, Emma Rodebaugh, Anna Smith, Katie Ritzenthaler, Susie Rager, Mr. and Mrs. Blau, Mr. and Mrs. Myer, Mrs. Benner, Mrs. M. Wells, Mr. and Mrs. Smith, Mr. and Mrs. Brown. The gentlemen were H. Christ, Louis Eichenberg, Walter Turley, August Wells, John Rager, Milton Wells, Jim Sorley, Ben and Joe Gressler, and George Lohner. Plenty of music and dancing were enjoyed, the music being furnished by Mr. Jacobs and Mrs. Friess. Mrs. Gressler was the recipient of a handsome plush rocker. An elegant supper was served.

Mrs. O. J. Hopkins and Miss Anna gave a charming reception yesterday afternoon from 3 till 6 o'clock in honor of their guest, Miss Stover. The pretty home was artistically decorated, chrysanthemums predominating. Little Miss Julia Hopkins, dressed in white, admitted the guests. The following young ladies assisted in the dining room: Miss Pearl Keen and Miss Jessie Thurstin, attired in dainty blue silk gown; Miss Persis Sawtelle in a handsome white silk; Miss Sarah Coddeback, in a becoming red silk; Miss Sophia Merry and Miss Delia Hopkins, in yellow silk gowns, and Miss Ruedy, in a light figured silk. Among the guests were Mrs. Sheppard, Mrs. Foster, Mrs. Callard, Mrs. Frank Tanner, Mrs. Nill Bartlett, Mrs. James McClean, Mrs. Harnit, Miss Fannie Harnit, Mrs. Blinn, Miss Louise Blinn, Miss Kittie Buck, Miss Winnie Bickel, Mrs. B. A. Stevens, Miss Beatty, Mrs. A. A. Huber, Mrs. J. G. Robison, Mrs. J. C. Carland, Mrs. F. C. Chapin, Mrs. Ned Crumbaugh, Mrs. Geo. W. Bartlett, Mrs. Frank Bartlett, Mrs. Manzy, Mrs. L. S. Churchill, Mrs. W. S. Thurstin, Mrs. M. R. Davis, Miss Millie Davis, the Misses Valette, Miss Letta Churchill, and others.

How fast Boots and Shoes are going off at our place. Of course they go on before they go off. Our sales are now very large. Not surprising to us, for our patrons here have found out that our footwear is made for the feet, to fit the feet. Also that it is well made, durable, stylish and low-priced. 'Rah for Ohio.

Turn the rascals out.

'Rah for Col. W. A. Taylor.

And Ohio, too. Good gracious!

Lucas county deserves a gold medal.

What's the matter with Ohio? She's all right.

Talk about landslides. Ohio, California—ye gods.

Everybody takes off his hat to Byron Ritchie.

Democrats in chorus: "It is better further on."

M. M. Eppstein is the happiest man in 'steen states.

Have you seen Doc Smith? Revenge is sweet, Doc.

What do you think of Ohio anyway? 'Rah for Farley.

Congressman Ritchie. It sounds well; exceedingly well.

Grandpa's hat has lost its force in American politics.

Gov. McKinley says it is a great surprise. It is. It is.

And Jim Southard. Poor Jim. Its tough, but it goes.

The people have said the tariff is a tax. Did you hear them?

Wood did well considering. It held Ashley down handsomely.

The republicans of Fulton are tickled over Ashley's defeat.

Col. Poorman did not succeed in breaking into congress, either.

Over a thousand republicans scratched Ashley in Lucas county.

Democrats will enjoy Thanksgiving services this year with a keen relish.

A number of drawn knives in Toledo have not been returned to republican pockets.

There are not as many democrats in Fulton county as there might be, but they are game.

Even McKinley's congressional district elected a democrat, and George P. Ikert is his name.

Next to President Cleveland, David B. Hill is the biggest democrat in the country at present.

That was a characteristic dispatch from Col. W. A. Taylor to President Cleveland. It is in the Bee.

Tonville's 'phone to the Blade yesterday afternoon was not reliable. He couldn't deliver the goods.

Foraker's happy. He cooked McKinley's goose Tuesday, and will serve it up for Thanksgiving.

Poems on the beautiful snow are due, but up to the hour of going to press none have put in an appearance.

The west was evidently in earnest when it declared that Harrison would not receive the electoral votes of that section.

It is evident from the returns from the Ohio congressional districts that gerrymandering does not always gerrymander.

McKinley gallivanting over the country saving Harrison while Ohio was captured under his nose, is pleasant, so pleasant.

McKinley swinging around the circle and then losing his own town, county, congressional district and state! How dead he is.

"Indiana in the wreck," wires United States Treasurer Nebecker. He undoubtedly means the wreck of the republican party.

Chairman Dick's dispatch to Chairman Carter about Ohio's 25,000 majority as loyalty to her son Harrison was somewhat previous.

The Findlay Courier people must be happy. The redeeming of Hancock county for the democracy is a great feather in their cap.

Just now Toledo is engaged in a reform of the city government, and all citizens will hope that the broom shall reach all the corners.

The Zanesville Signal jollifies by printing its paper in red, white and blue colors, with the first page adorned with a vigorous red rooster.

The next grand chancellor of Ohio K. P.'s, Hon. H. W. Lewis, was selected auditor of Montgomery county by nearly 2,000 majority.

The local democratic executive committee should have the solid support of the local democracy in its efforts to secure a full and fair count.

Ashleyites have sworn vengeance on the Hamilton and Griffin men. Proceed to wreak it, gentlemen; democrats at least will enjoy the scrimmage.

Republican traitors are the fellows handled without gloves by the organs. There is no future considered when this kind of talk is indulged in.

When Senator Brice, in a special to the Bee a few days ago, predicted a democratic victory in Ohio, some were inclined to laugh. He was right.

It has been suggested that 'Lige Southard's campaign glee club is what did the business. Possibly; the words and music of most of the songs were killing.

There is reason to believe there will be a vacancy in the school board. Dr. Scott carried his spleen to the wrong man when he approached Superintendent Compton.

Judge Geddes, of Mansfield, is dead. He was a well known democratic wheel horse, and rendered creditable service on the bench and in congress.

The fact that Ohio republicans lost heavily in the manufacturing centers is evidence that the wild-cat bank and free trade scarecrows did not work.

Several republican statesmen died outside of the breastworks on Tuesday, as did Senator Warner Miller four years ago when he ran against Governor Hill.

The Bee's facilities in the composing and press rooms were taxed yesterday to supply the great demand for papers, but as usual the Buzzer got there just the same.

Governor McKinley will not be the quantity in the next national republican convention that his friends anticipated. McKinleyism went with Harrison in the wreck.

Ashley would assume a great eminence in Washington with a democratic majority with a democratic majority of 88. This is plain to be seen to the casual observer.

Surely the democracy of Lucas county will not allow the great victory to pass without a grand jollification meeting. The cause and man are worthy of the highest honor.

Democrats have good excuse for their exhibition of hilarity. National victory has fallen to their lot only twice in 30 years, hence it is all right to let 'er go, Gallagher.

The republicans have already set themselves at work fixing up President Cleveland's cabinet, a task, however, which will be attended to in due time without their assistance.

What's that about Golden Circle, head ax man, etc., heard about Adlai Stevenson in the past few months. His home state, Illinois, expressed opinion on the warfare in a very satisfactory manner.

Ordinarily a man losing a district with about two thousand majority in his favor would crawl into a hole and pull the hole after him. Not so with Ashley, he would be satisfied with one over his opponent.

At the Minneapolis convention the anti-Harrisonites told the office-holders and bosses that they had succeeded in nominating their man and might proceed at once to elect him, which, by the way, they didn't do.

Ninth district democrats will not allow themselves to be beaten out of a congressional seat. This might as well be known first as last. The certificate may be stolen, but there is a court of last resort at Washington.

Chairman Farley, of the democratic campaign committee, did not issue as many addresses to the electors as Chairman Dick, but his quiet canvass of Ohio achieved results. "Long John" is no spring chicken.

The official canvass of Lucas county's vote is in progress at the rooms of the board of elections, and will scarcely be completed to-day. On its result will depend the election of Byron Ritchie. The Bee, in common with a majority of the voters of the district, believes he is elected.

According to the republican wailers, the country is about to put up gates for four years. Of course, democrats with a popular majority of about a million votes have no interest whatever in the general prosperity. These self-assumed protectors of the nation will have a terrible load lifted from their shoulders by Tuesday's election.

Clerks in Washington are already figuring how long they have been democrats. In fact, according to their stories, the boys were never anything else. The four hundred who came to Ohio to vote for Harrison should scarcely be classed with this number. But it is as some say, "it would be difficult to change administrations quicker than they can change politics."

Probably the proudest democrat in Northwestern Ohio is W. W. Croninger, of Fulton county. For the second time Mr. Croninger was elected as auditor by a handsome majority, and for the fourth time the democrats capture the office. He has reason for his enthusiasm. While discussing the matter of help in connection with the victory, the fight put up by Editor J. C. Bollmyer, of the Wauseon Expositor, Dr. Allen, and other good democrats should not be forgotten.

CONGRESSMAN RITCHIE.

Byron F. Ritchie is elected to congress. The figures in Lucas county as revised give Mr. Ritchie about 24 votes to go on in the district.

The official figures must tell the tale.

Mr. Ritchie has made an excellent fight from the start, and with a large majority and a larger barrel—against him, his victory is all the more notable and glorious.

Honest Confession Good for the Soul.

The republican party never yet permitted its officeholders to dictate. The officeholders and the solid south held the whip hand at Minneapolis. They would not listen to reason. They have been taught their lesson. STREET CAR STRIKE.

The State of Affairs in Columbus.

A Bitter War Being Waged Between Capital and Labor.

Columbus, O., Nov. 10.—The war between the street railroad company and its employes is on now in full force, and promises to be one of the bitterest labor wars this city has seen for a long time.

The men remain immovable and the company is no less firm in its position. Since the failure of Mayor Karb to bring about a settlement, affairs have steadily become worse and worse, until the whole trouble has resolved into a question of which is the more powerful, the company or Union No. 5029, United Order of Street Railway Employes.

The directors of the Columbus Consolidated Street Railway company met last night and decided by formal vote to attempt to run cars to-day under police protection.

For two days and two nights not a wheel on the Consolidated road has been turned. The residents who live any distance from the center of the city have been greatly inconvenienced by the tie-up, especially so since the heavy snow storm that prevailed all day yesterday and last night.

At 6 o'clock this morning 100 policemen were taken to the Long street line and distributed at various points. Another large squad were taken to the Long street barns. At 7 o'clock everything was in readiness to start a car and manned by a non-union motorman and conductor and a dozen policemen, the car slowly pulled out of the barn.

The strikers surged about the car and refused to get off the track. Another squad of police were called into service, and after considerable trouble the track was cleared and it took but a moment for the car to be beyond any interference from the strikers.

No more trouble was encountered until the car reached Long and High streets, a distance of about four miles from the barn, although all along the line crowds hooted and jeered as it passed. At Long and High another immense crowd met the car and took possession of the track.

A patrol wagon load of police soon arrived and cleared the way, but before the car had proceeded half a dozen blocks further it was met by another large crowd of strikers and sympathizers at the corner of High and Main. Here one of the strikers mounted a heavily loaded coal wagon and drove it on the track. He was immediately placed under arrest and hurried away in a patrol wagon.

The police succeeded in running the car to the court house, three blocks further, where it was turned and started back to the barns. Little interference was shown on the return trip. No attempts have as yet been made to run cars over any of the other lines.

The strikers have been promised the support of every other union in the city, and this morning President Mahon of the Street Railway Employes' union, is calling upon the members of the union to come out. Public sympathy seems to be with the strikers and serious trouble is expected before the day is over.

CANVASS OF RETURNS.

The Glory of the Democrats Shines Brighter.

At an early hour this morning those interested in the result of the congressional and circuit judgeship elections were at the rooms of the board of elections to try and secure exact figures from the city and county of the vote on those two offices. It was conceded on all sides that the contest for each was quite close, and all were anxious to get certain information from the other counties, and some expressed impatience because they could not get official figures right away.

The board decided to begin the canvass of the vote at 10 o'clock, and so notified the candidates and their representatives. There was some delay in starting, owing to having to wait for some of those who wanted to be present. There was some difficulty in obtaining a man to represent Ashley, but it was finally done and about 10:30 the canvass of the vote began.

While the members of the board were assembling one of them on entering discerned before him on the table a marble slab used for holding down the big official papers that are apt to curl when spread out. This stone is rough on the edges, though smooth on the sides, and even at the ends. The new comer remarked: "That's a nice thing to lay in front of a republican this morning, now, isn't it?" The other republican member of the board caught the idea at once, and snatching up the tombstone he neatly inscribed on one side of it:

> In Memoriam,
> G. O. P.
> Nov. 8, 1892.
>
> Aetat 31 Years.

He then set it up on end on the table and everybody approved.

There was talk of Ohio going democratic, but disbelief was general. The republicans, naturally, could not believe it, and the democrats thought it too good to be true. They were inclined to be satisfied without, but willing to take it with the rest.

The election of Ritchie and Seribner was regarded as probable, but so close that only the official count would determine.

The democratic interests were represented by Judge Commager and Rhyne Opitz and Jim Southard stayed a short time as a representation of what is left of the republican cause. The canvass proceeded to Precinct B of the Second ward, and when that precinct was concluded the board adjourned till 2 o'clock.

A few unimportant changes were made in figures. The vote for presidential electors was different for the different men on both tickets, but the figures already published are a fair approximate.

The republican majorities in the First ward, according to the canvassed figures, are: State ticket, 283; supreme court judge, long term, 294; short term, 294; clerk of supreme court, 294; board of public works, 293; congress, 157; circuit judge, 164; common pleas, judge, 380; discarding the people's party vote, and 363 counting it; recorder, 1,272; commissioner, 293; surveyor, 309; infirmary director, 313.

The board has four days in which to complete the canvass; but will likely rush it through, in consideration of the anxiety of all parties to hear the scrutenized vote. The vote on the Second ward councilmanic election will have to be canvassed t other board.

Its Doom is Sealed.

It is a sweeping victory! There is no time to measure in words its imposing significance. It is more distinctively a triumph of the common people than any that has been won since 1876. We have elected a democratic president and a democratic house of representatives; and New York will lead in the fight for the senate with a democratic gain of one.

The people have followed where GROVER CLEVELAND led. Yesterday was fought the Gettysburg of the war for tariff reform. The monopoly tariff is doomed!—Rochester Herald.

A Philosophical View.

The jig is up. If you are a winner you are happy. But don't let it swell your head. Don't make a big fuss about what you have done, for it took about five millions to do it, and your share of the five is so small that you can't realize it.

And if you are with the mourners in this procession don't cry too loud. The catastrophe is not a serious one. The country will prosper if your favorite is not chosen to be its chief ruler. The man who wins has already been in the same position, and shown his fitness for the job.—Bradford Era.

Greshman's Force.

The democratic party is debtor to Walter Q. Gresham. It was the spirit of the independent voter, of the honest citizen, and of the general trend of traiff reform, voiced in his declaratory letter on behalf of Cleveland, that nerved the political spirit of the people of Illinois. They had desired freedom from the robber-tariff tax, but the party loyalty held them in bondage. It was the bold spirit of Gresham which broke down the barriers and let the flood-tide of political reform into a corrupt and monopoly-ridden party. Of course Gresham is entitled to reawrd, but the higher duty is to emulate his independent, manly spirit.—Chicago Dispatch.

Why He Succeeded.

George W. Childs' paper, the Philadelphia Ledger, and the leading independent-republican paper in the east, contained the following the day before the election, under the head "Why Cleveland Will Succeed:" "His (Cleveland's) administration has been free from official or personal scandal; has been honest and clean. There have been no Star Route robberies; no navy jobberies; no war department corruption; no profligate waste by United States marshals; no treasury combinations or speculations; no corrupt operations in or through the land office. No American at home or abroad has had occasion to droop his eyes in shame because of any such things under Mr. Cleveland's administration. On the contrary, there has been a resolute effort to promote honest government, to increase efficiency and to lessen expenses."

Have Cause to Bow Their Heads.

Was there ever a presidential election in Indiana in which a great political party was reduced to such straits for argument as the republican party in the recent campaign? Their speakers have been going over the state misrepresenting the expenses of the insane hospitals and the janitor's work at the state house. They have tried to gull the people as to the effects of the tax law. They have tried to bluff through the absurd story that Frick was a democrat. They have made great parade of the false report of Peck of New York as to the wages of workingmen. This has been their stock in trade, and what a magnificent basis for a campaign it has furnished. We should think that republicans would hide their heads in shame when they reflect on the miserable pretexts to which they have made resort.

The Conquest of Illinois.

The most significant result of Tuesday's sweeping democratic triumph is the political conquest of Illinois. It marks a new era in national politics and transfers state primacy, so far as such a thing can be recognized, from New York to Illinois. On frequent occasions since the democratic defeat of four years ago the Republic has pointed out the vital necessity of party development in the west, and has repeatedly declared that if that development was to lead to political revolution Illinois must take the lead in it.

She has taken it. The result of the election in the state of Lincoln, Grant and Logan was not unexpected by the Republic. It has predicted it as a result of conditions, both national and local, forcing the state out of the republican line and into the democratic, and has labored strenuously to bring it about.

Illinois changes the political map of the United States. Old lines and divisions disappear, and in the new alignment the great state of the central west must take commanding place. The Republic hails her, not alone for what she has done, but for what her action signifies and promises.—St. Louis Republic.

FRIGHTFUL DISASTER.

Several People Injured on a Western Road.

A Fast Freight Crashes Into the Caboose of a Local Train.

Ottumwa, Ia., Nov. 10.—A fearful catastrophe occurred on the Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul road last night at Highland Center, a small station on that road north of this city.

A fast freight dashed into the caboose of a local freight standing on the track, telescoping the caboose and four cars.

The caboose caught fire and the scene which followed was heartrending. Four people were burned alive and a number of others had narrow escapes. The caboose split into by a car of grain, weding in four people on the right side.

A most pitiful sight was Miss Lizzie Butter, of this city, who got her head out of the window and piteously pleaded with those to save her. Her body was pinioned by a freight car and it was impossible to extricate her.

Mrs. Jones, also of this city, tried to escape through the window, but being an unusually large woman she could not get through.

Other victims were an unknown woman and an unknown man. The latter is thought to be a butcher at Oskaloosa.

The injured are: Mrs. Clyde Millisack, Mrs. Pickett, of this city, and Miss Lizzie Corey. These were badly burned, but not fatally. A curious incident was that one passenger was disguised and in the crash his disguise came off, revealing a noted crook. He quickly disappeared in the excitment.

MARYLAND.

The Democrats Had It All Their Own Way.

Baltimore, Nov. 10.—Complete returns from Maryland show that the democrats have made great gains while the republicans have lost. The figures give Cleveland 113,831; Harrison 92,453; Bidwell, 4,900; Weaver, 1,000; Cleveland's plurality, 21,378. In 1888 Cleveland's plurality was 6,182.

The democrats have carried all six of the congressional districts which gives Maryland a solid delegation in the next congress.

The majorities are: Brown and Brattan (short and long term) in the First district, 1,745; Talbot, Second, 4,949; Rusk, Third, 6,246; Rayner, Fourth, 6,798; Compton, Fifth, 2,003; McKaig, Sixth, 672.

There's a regular craze for Poole Overcoats.

Seems as though every gentleman in Toledo who has hitherto patronized the "stylish" tailor has been in our Clothing Shop looking at them. They're the raging sensation of the trade.

It's a new overcoat shape. It's from London, where all gentlemen's fashions originate. It's a copy of a coat made by the famous Poole, tailor to the Prince of Wales. You see it in picture today—the long, generous sack shape, from Smooth Kersey or the celebrated English Carr Melton.

It's true form and will do you true and laudable service. We are proud of this coat. You'll be proud too when you shall own it. The price, $25. Your tailor will ask you twice $25.

UNITED STATES SENATE.

Pilfering Did Not Do It Any Good.

The Republican Majority Will Be Tied and Perhaps Wiped Out.

Washington, Nov. 10.—At present there are in the senate forty-seven republicans, thirty-nine democrats, and two farmers' alliance men. It looks now as though after the 4th of March next there will be forty-three republicans, forty-three democrats, and two farmers' alliance representatives. One of these—Senator Peffer, of Kansas—will probably vote with the republican party. Should Senator Kyle insist on being on the other side of any momentous question there could easily be a tie, and this would have to be broken by the casting vote of the vice president, who would vote with the democrats.

The terms of twenty-nine members of the senate will expire March 3 next. Eighteen of these are republicans and eleven are democrats. Of the latter there was some doubt as to the return of three—Faulkner, of West Virginia; Turpie, of Indiana, and Gray, of Delaware. Figures already in would seem to show quite clearly that Senator Faulkner will undoubtedly be re-elected. It is possible that the same disposition may be made of Senator Gary's case, but nothing definite can be assumed until the political status of the state is made more clear. If it is true that Indiana has gone democratic, Mr. Turpie will probably succeed himself. The other democrats whose terms expire March 3 are practically sure of re-election, or if there should be personal trouble between themselves and their legislatures, the places the senators vacate would be filled by members of the democratic party. Of the eighteen republican senators whose terms expire in March ten were supposed to be reasonably secure as to re-election. These are Senators Aldrich, Rhode Island; Allen, Washington; Dawes, Massachusetts; Felton, California; Hale, Maine; Hawley, Connecticut; Proctor, Vermont; Quay, Pennsylvania; Sherman, Ohio; and Warren, Wyoming. Recently arrived indications from Wyoming are to the effect that Senator Warren will probably be defeated. The eight republican seats which were some time ago regarded as doubtful are those of Senator Casey, of North Dakota; Senator Paddock, of Nebraska; Senator Hiscock, of New York; Senator Sanders, of Montana; Senator Sawyer, of Wisconsin; Senator Stockbridge, of Michigan; Senator Stewart, of Nevada; and Senator Davis, of Minnesota. Of these Senator Hiscock will certainly be succeeded by a democrat, and there are strong chances that a like fate may befall Senator Paddock. Senator Stockbridge is almost certain to come out satisfactorily in Michigan, and from the returns that have come in to-day it would seem as though Senator Hawley would be sent back.

REPUBLICAN WITH A GUN.

He Created Trouble in South Carolina.

A Shooting Affray in Which Three White Persons Were Killed

Columbia, S. C., Nov. 10.—Details of the election affray of Tuesday at Rolland's store precinct, Anderson county, show that three men were killed and several wounded, all whites. It appears that R. G. Carter, the republican supervisor, and James W. Earle, a democrat, became involved in a political quarrel just outside of the house in which the voting was going on.

Carter pulled his pistol and fired at Earle, but missed him and hit Columbus Green, the democratic manager, who came to the door to see what the trouble was. Green was killed instantly, the ball passing through his heart. The missile struck him in the stomach, but glanced around and did not go through. Earle then began firing, and both men emptied their weapons. Both went behind the store to reload.

Earle ran through the house and picked up a shotgun and poured the contents into Carter. During the fusilade three bystanders were wounded, but not seriously. Carter was terribly wounded, and died a few hours afterward. Carter came to Anderson county from Georgia several years ago. He was a desperate character and had killed a man once before. A dispatch just received from Anderson says Earle died last night. The three dead men leave families.

IN NEW YORK.

A Wedding Event Attracts Much Attention.

New York, Nov. 10.—High society, and especially representatives of the ancient and feudal families turned out in force to-day at the Episcopal church of St. Thomas, to witness the nuptials of Miss Coralie Livingstone Gardner and Mr. Alexander Coxe, a young Englishman belonging to a prominent family and the possessor of a good sized fortune.

The wedding was rendered noteworthy from the fact that the bride is the eldest daughter of Col. J. Lyon Gardner, the twelfth lord of the manor of Gardner's island, which was also the first English settlement in New York state, and has been in the possession of the family since 1630.

She is also descended from the lords of the manor of Livingstone, and the Hon. Rip van Dam, the celebrated colonial governor, besides being connected with the van Rensselaers, van Cortlands, Winthrops and Griswolds. The wedding was solemnized after the high English style. As bridesmaids there were Miss Clara J. Williams, Miss Helen de Peyster, Miss Winthrop, the Misses Annie and Bessie van Rensselaer and Miss Abele Griswold Gardner.

HE PLEADS GUILTY.

Councilman Neuendorf Withdraws His Former Plea.

And Throws Himself on the Mercy of the Court—A Statement by His Attorney.

Councilman Neuendorf pleads guilty.

The overwhelming evidence presented by the state in the two preceding cases was more than the member from the First evidently cared to contest.

He resolved to go into open court, admit his guilt to the charge of being a party to a conspiracy to solicit a bribe to influence his official vote, and leave his destiny to the mercy of the court.

At 9:45 o'clock this morning, Attorney Frank E. Wright, counsel for Mr. Neuendorf, entered the court room, accompanied by his client.

Addressing himself to Judge Harmon, Mr. Wright said:

"If the court please, the defendant, Charles Neuendorf, desires to withdraw his plea of not guilty and submit one of guilty. He desires me to state that in view of the fact that similar cases of others have been passed upon by two other juries, he has resolved that no better result could be accomplished by contest."

Judge Harmon—"Is this your wish, Mr. Neuendorf?"

Neuendorf—"It is: yes, sir."

The bail was then fixed at $1,000, which Mr. Neuendorf furnished.

The case against B. O. Manchester will be taken up next Monday morning.

What His Attorney Says.

In conversation with a Bee Mr. Wright said:

"The action of Charles Neuendorf in changing his plea, was the result entirely of his own judgment and the advice of his nearest friends. The fact that two Lucas county juries had passed upon the same state of facts, has led, not only the defendant, but all thinking persons as well, that a legal contest would be futile.

"I have not ventured a single word to the court relative to the consequences of this step with regard to sentence. The statute itself makes the discrimination, and a single act of solicitation of bribe, nothing being derived and no further acts of guilt shown, must seem to all to come within the pale of the lenient side of the penalty.

"Ever since his case has been before the public, the family of Mr. Neuendorf has been almost crazy with worry and suffering, and their anxiety and solicitation in the premises had much to do with his action to-day.

"Mr. Neuendorf has always borne a good character, and we must conclude that this fact will not be overlooked."

A FORGER CAUGHT.

Wallace Duncan, of a Good Indianapolis Family,

Goes Wrong and Is Brought Up Short in Toledo This Morning.

A young man, Wallace Duncan by name, was arrested this morning in a Water street saloon by Patrolmen Hind and Bliss.

He is wanted for forgery. Duncan is about 24 years of age, and is the son of Attorney Duncan, the well known criminal lawyer of Indianapolis, Ind.

It seems young Duncan went to Bucyrus and stopped at a hotel for a number of days. He represented that he was traveling agent for a glue house. On leaving he tendered in payment a check on the First National bank of Cleveland for $250. His bill amounted to $70. The clerk of the hotel took the check and handed over the balance to Duncan, $180.

Duncan then lit out for Toledo. The check was returned from the Cleveland bank as a forgery and the Bucyrus people immediately set out to hunt up their man. They traced him to Toledo, where he was captured, as above stated.

In his valise were found letters and a large number of checks on various banks, supposed to be forgeries. One letter was an unfinished one to his father. It stated that he was tired of life. "You will never hear of me again, father," it read, "until I have made a man of myself. I wish I was underground, and perhaps I will be soon."

Duncan has traveled all over the country, from Augusta, Me., to Portland, Oregon. He will be sent to Bucyrus this afternoon.

OHIO CONGRESSMEN.

They Fought a Noble Battle and Won.

Cleveland, O., Nov. 10.—A telegram from Bellaire this morning states that Col. Poorman, the republican candidate for congress in the Sixteenth district, concedes the election of A. J. Pearson by a plurality of 200. In the Ninth, or Toledo district, Byron Ritchie is undoubtedly elected. The official count will be necessary to decide the contest.

It is now settled that the democrats have elected M. D. Harter in the Fourteenth district and Dr. George P. Ikert in McKinley's old district, the Eighteenth.

Aside from the Toledo district each party is now sure of ten congressmen from this state.

A republican gerrymander last winter was supposed to give the democrats but six members of the lower house. The democrats who have been elected in what were counted as republican districts are M. D. Harter, in the Fourteenth, who overcame a nominal republican plurality of 1,800; A. J. Pearson, in the Sixteenth, who was confronted with a supposed republican plurality of about 1,300; George P. Ikert, whose handicap in the Eighteenth district was fixed at 2,500, and Tom L. Johnson, of the twenty-first district, which was counted upon as republican by 1,600 majority.

In the Ninth district the republicans were supposed to have a normal plurality of at least 1,800.

Chairman Farley, of the democratic committee, was in Cleveland this morning. He claimed the state for the democrats by 1,200 plurality.

LIBERAL DEMONSTRATION.

Warm Times for a Few Hours in Brussels.

Brussels, Nov. 10.—There was a big liberalist demonstration here last night at the Alhambra theater, fully 3,500 being present.

M. Janson and other liberal deputies made speeches, violently attacking the government. At the conclusion of the meeting the liberals paraded through the streets, 2,500 strong, and marched toward the palace, carrying the red flag.

Arriving at the Rue Morgue the procession was charged by a detachment of gendarmes, and the artillery and civic guards were summoned to protect the palace and the ministerial department buildings. The paraders were separated into two portions and were finally dispersed about midnight, amid howlings and hootings and cries of "Long live universal suffrage."

SEARCHING FOR A SHIP.

London, Nov. 10.—The British iron-clad Swiftsure—flagship of Admiral His Royal Highness the Duke of Edinburgh—left Plymouth last evening to search for the British corvette Calyphe, which is reported to have broken her shaft while en route to Madeira. The Calyphe is a vessel of 2,770 tons and belongs to the training squadron.

London, Nov. 10.—The Sportsman announces that the great stallion Ormonde will come back to England from Buenos Ayres in January. It adds that he will serve here 10 mares at 300 guineas each before his new owner, Mr. Wm. McDough, who, it is said, paid $150,000 for him, has the stallion taken to San Francisco.

Some Political Figures of Interest to Bee Readers.

Boston, Nov. 10.—By the most careful estimate of the few missing towns, based on the rule of percentages, it appears as though Russell, democrat, has about 2,800 plurality over Haile, republican. The results in the congressinal districts as far as completed are as follows:

Third district—Walker, rep., 14,138; Thayer, dem., 13,262. Walker's plurality, 876.

Fourth district—Apsley, rep., 17,688; Coolidge, dem., 14,750. Apsley's plurality, 3,118.

Fifth district—Stevens, dem., 14,413; Knox, rep., 12,625. Stevens' plurality, 1,788.

Seventh district—Lodge, rep., 17,872; Everett, dem., 14,397. Lodge's plurality, 2,685.

Eighth district—McCall, rep., 15,432; Andrew, dem., 14,290. McCall's plurality, 1,142.

Ninth district—O'Neill, dem., 14,357; Lane, rep., 8,615. O'Neill's plurality, 5,742.

Tenth district—McEttrick, ind. dem., 10,163; McNary, dem., 7,512; Atwood, rep., 8,834; Humphrey, ind. rep., 2,216. McEttrick's plurality, 1,329.

Eleventh district—Draper, rep., 16,979; Williams, dem., 15,065. Draper's plurality, 1,911.

IN THE BOWER CASE.

Chief of Police Raitz Receives Instructions.

Probate Judge Millard Fixes the Amount of Bond in Cash This Morning.

Probate Judge Millard fixed the amount of bond for costs in the Bower impeachment case, at $300.

Chief of Police Raitz received the following notice in the matter this morning:

To Benjamin Raitz, Chief of Police:

You are commanded to notify Henry Bower, street commissioner of the city of Toledo, that charges have been preferred against him in the common council of the city of Toledo, and that the common council has by resolution directed that a hearing thereof be had at the council chamber on the evening of the 16th day of November, 1892, at 7:30 o'clock, at which time and place, Bower is notified to appear and defend.

SYLVESTER LAMB, City Clerk.

JUDGE PUGH'S DECISION.

Citizens of Ohio May Sue the State of New York—An Important Legal Matter.

Columbus, Nov. 10.—The interpretation of a decision by Judge Pugh here this afternoon, is that citizens of Ohio may sue the state of New York. The case is an important one involving $12,000, and was styled the state of New York against C. C. Corner. The suit was brought to recover this amount from Corner, who is a dealer in brushes and articles of that class. The supreme court of New York gave the plaintiff $10,000. The brushes manufactured for and delivered to Corner were made at the Elmira reformatory. The defendant filed a counter claim for $12,000, claiming a breach of contract on the part of the plaintiff, who had failed to furnish and deliver to him 12,000 gross of brushes which he had ordered, and which he has sold to other parties, thereby damaging him to that extent. To the counter claim the defendant filed a general denial. Judge Pugh dismissed the demurrer to both causes of action.

WESTERN ROADS.

A Plan to Reorganize Existing Associations.

Chicago, Nov. 10.—The committee of vice presidents and managers of western roads, and to which was some time ago submitted the task of formulating a plan for the reorganization of all the existing associations, reassembled here this morning for the purpose of taking specific action.

Owing to the antagonism of some of the lines and the indifference of others the work of the committee has not been attended with any considerable degree of success.

The majority of the members seem to favor a proposition for a tonnage pool, or division of traffic arrangements, although there is a wide divergence of opinions as to what traffic and points should be competitive.

THE DULUTH AND SUPERIOR SPECIAL.

In full keeping with its well-known progressive policy the North-Western Line (Chicago & North-Western railway), has recently inaugurated through train service between Chicago and the Lake Superior region. This new train is known as the "Duluth and Superior Special," and it leaves Chicago daily at 5:50 p. m., arriving at Superior at 8:20 a. m., and Duluth at 8:52 the next day, making the journey in the remarkably quick time of 15 hours. The train is made up of baggage cars, standard day coaches and palace buffet sleeping cars of the most modern and approved design, and all classes of passengers are carried through without change of cars. Dr. Baxter, the President, Gives a Check for $100,000, the Full Amount, in United States Court.

The Lima natural gas trouble pending in the United States court at this point, have been adjusted, and the suit, which was filed a short time ago, withdrawn.

The suit referred to was filed by the Chester Pipe & Tube company against the Lima Natural Gas company, to recover $100,000 on an account. This had been secured by mortgage on the plant at Lima, and the owner of the claim demanded that the mortgage be foreclosed.

However, Dr. Baxter, one of Lima's bankers and president of the Gas company, came to the rescue this morning by tendering his personal check for $100,000.

BRITISH PRESS.

The Election Sealed the Doom of McKinleyism.

London, Nov. 10.—The Pall Mall Gazette, under the heading "Exit McKinley," says: The news from America is as good as it is surprising. We don't claim that the United States will be converted to free trade, but at all events the protection movement is checked. Americans have awakened to the fact that a high tariff penalizes the consumer, and also rears and sustains gigantic and ruthless monopolies, like Carnegie's. England should also be thankful. Our relations with the United States are likely to improve vastly.

The London Star says the news will be received with undisguised pleasure wherever McKinleyism has had a blighting effect upon trade. "It is an awkward blow to our free traders, who encouraged Lord Salisbury in trying to revive the protection heresy."

The St. James Gazette says that the vulgarity and buster and naked partisan selfishness of Blaine over-shot the mark. The English may be content for the present. They know that the party which openly boasted that it would ruin our manufactures, and which conferred high honors upon Patrick Egan has sustained a shattering defeat. The St. James Gazette criticises both the republican and democratic parties in severely hostile language, and says there is not much to choose between them.

The comments of the Evening Globe on the American election are colorless and analytical. The Globe says: "It would be although premature to assume that the victory will be followed by any sweeping change. There is a very wide gap between the modifying McKinley bill and abolishing protection. The question is an extremely ticklish one. Cleveland will probably attempt to run with the hare and follow the hounds."

The Echo, which is largely devoted to workingmen's interests says: "At last the American artisan has learned that unnecessary taxation decreases the purchasing power of wages, and that the nominal amount of earnings does not proportionately increase.

MRS. DEACON.

Paris, Nov. 10.—The appeal of Mrs. Deacon from the decision of the tribunal of the Seine which declared that she had no right to apply for a divorce from her husband and awarded the custody of the children to Mrs. Deacon came up before Judge Perivier yesterday and was adjourned for a week.

The rarest treat offered the people of Toledo, in a pure food line, is given by Armstrong & Clarke in their annual fall opening of canned fruits and vegetables, now on exhibition at their store.

UNEXPECTED.

THE CAMPAIGN IN RHYME.

Our hearts are sad, our peace has fled,
Our home is in an awful state,
Our family circle's lost its head,
Since pa became a candidate.

Poor mamma can not sleep at all,
For pa gets home so very late,
And we've had many a family brawl,
Since pa became a candidate.

Poor pa is worried most to death;
In dreams he talks about a "slate,"
And raves of "fights" with fearful breath,
Since pa became a candidate.

His clothes smell horrid of cigars,
And nasty beer he used to hate,
We watch for hacks instead of cars
Since pa became a candidate.

LOVE'S TOKEN.

"What are you doing, John?"

John Turner was working hard at something and humming over and over the old song,

"He had but a saxpence; he brak it in twa," to his own melodious Scotch air. He looked up and smiled when Milly Gray asked him that question, but made no answer for some moments. At last he arose and laid before her a flat worn tenpence, cut in half, with a hole cut in each piece.

"You know lovers always used to break a silver sixpence. Your song put me in mind. I've carved 'J' on your half and 'M' on mine, and you must find a ribbon to wear them next our hearts by, all our lives."

"But you are not goin awa', John?"

"I hope not. It's a pretty idea, though, isn't it? Suppose they were my only tenpence; I wonder whether you'd cast me off if I had only tenpence in the world, and that broken?"

Milly, the shy, made no answer. But she nestled a little closer to John and made herself busy with the bit of blue ribbon she had drawn from her pocket. Just then it would have taken a great deal to make her cast John Turner off, and he could not fancy it possible that she could offend him.

All their lives long the two lovers remembered that long summer afternoon and those whispered conversations, and that saunter home along the shore by moonlight, as a little bit of paradise which had somehow lost itself in this hard old earth. As days are very warm and bright sometimes before a storm, so were those hours the sweetest perhaps of all their brief engagement year.

When they parted each wore the broken tenpence with the first letter of the other's name upon it, fastened to the slender ribbon of true blue.

They were to be married in August, and it was now July. Milly's white robe was made, and mimic orange blossoms lay in the drawers of the bureau. John Turner had bought the snug farmhouse of old Gilmore, who had lost his wife, and was going to the city, to live with his eldest son, and had furnished the best room in a manner that awakened the envy of every woman in the place.

There were but three Sundays more before the wedding in the old church, and the house-warming and the changing of those two lovers into husband and wife. Only three Sundays, and they had just broken a tenpence together and had spent that long day in the old woods, and had gone home to lie awake and watch the stars and think of each other all night. And yet before those three Sundays were over they had quarreled.

A little thing at first, and both only waiting for the other to apologize. But you know the tiny blue flame from a match may spread and widen into a great tongue of fire which is strong enough to lick a city into ashes.

Pride and temper fanned the little angry spark. She felt insulted. He thought it her place to give in.

At last the end came, and, loving each other still, they parted. Milly sent back John's letters and her engagement ring and a little parcel of gifts bedewed with tears as they were folded away; and he returned her tiny notes and the watchguard she had made him. But somehow Milly never thought of sending back that broken bit of silver about her neck, and John kept his half also.

"He'll never remember so small a thing—I may keep that," thought Milly.

And John sighed:

"She has flung hers away. I dare say, and as she can't know I've kept this, I'll wear it yet."

So the farm house was resold, and John Turner went away to sea; and Milly—somehow women always have the hardest part—Milly had to stay at home, and fold away the white dress and the orange wreath, and hear condolences and prying questions, and sit in the same pew in church, and walk alone over the same path she had so often trodden by her lover's side. But upon the stormy ocean, or in the humdrum routine of weary household duties, each wore against the poor, worn heart, that bore so much and told so little, the broken tenpence with its tiny ribbon of true blue.

For a long while Milly used to start at every step and fancy John was coming back to woo her again. For a long while, whenever the dog barked after dark or the pigeons rustled and cooed upon their perches, she thought they heard John in the garden path. But John never came. And one year passed, and two, and four more, bringing great trouble; for her mother died, and with that her father, who was very old, broke down and took to his bed, and she seemed to be quite alone in the world.

In another year she was an orphan, and knew for certain that John Turner was never coming back again. She was not poor, and she was very pretty still, consequently many a young farmer tried to take poor John Turner's place. It was no use. Even the fair-haired clergyman, who firmly believed Miss Milly was the wife intended by Providence to preside over his parsonage, had no chance; though when he entered the farm house parlor, his cravats were like snow, and his little tender speeches all prepared and learned by note. Miss Milly was solicitous about his cold, and had current jelly for tea; and the old servant, Aunt Deb, played propriety in a corner, with her knitting, and there was no chance for sentiment.

By and by the girls began to count Miss Milly's age, and declare that she really was an old maid; and the young men with "sparking" intentions went elsewhere; and Milly, looking in her glass, knew that she was altering—that her lips were not so bright, nor her cheeks so rosy, and that youth was following love like a dream.

"Better so," she thought, "than to marry another while my heart is still his."

And then she would draw her broken tenpence from her bosom, and kiss it fondly.

It was tarnished now, and the blue ribbon faded and frayed, but the letter "J" was as plain upon its worn surface as ever.

The place where Milly lived was not far from the seaside, and from her window she could see many a gallant ship as it lay at anchor. Knowing that John Turner was a sailor gave her an interest in these she might not else have had; and in times of storm the tempest-tossed mariners never guessed how the pale lady who had watched the sea until dark, lay upon her pillow praying for them.

She had quarreled with John Turner—she had sent back his letters and his ring—but she wore the tenpence he had broken next her heart, now that 10 years were gone, and was kind to every sailor.

The September gales came on fiercely and suddenly one year, the eleventh of the lovers' separation. All along the Atlantic coast old people still remember what a frightful year it was. Many a brave vessel floated a wreck, many another was swallowed by the ravenous mouths of the greedy waves. In the little church the place was full of sobs when in his Sabbath prayer the pastor pleaded for the safety of those upon the sea. And captains' wives who dwelt there, and held their heads high at other times, humbled their pride, and sat for hours in the cottages of the common sailors' wives because they found comfort there, and Polly had a stout heart, and would declare that "her Jack" must come home safe, and, "Lord love ye, Mrs. Captain, I've heard him say many's the good time, ther warn't no danger nowhere with the captain aboard, and such a ship's plank under 'em—danger! of course not."

But with all the hopes and fears, and despite the prayers, the Lord saw fit to lay a heavy hand upon those who sailed the sea that year, and at last, one awful night, a ship went to pieces on the rocks just below the lighthouse. And though their own friends might be on board, and many in the town went half wild with agony, no help could be given until the day broke. Then the storm having lulled a little, there seemed some hope for the few who clung to the unhappy vessel. Boats went out, and with the first load of benumbed wretches came the news that the crew were all apparently foreigners, at which more than one sunk down upon the sand to thank heaven. Yet they were none the less kind to the poor souls. They fed and clothed them, and opened their homes to them.

The inn nearest to the shore, known as the "Sailors' Retreat," was transformed into a perfect hospital, and thither came the charitable ladies of the village with articles of food and clothing for the destitute strangers, and offers of such acts of kindness as only women can fittingly perform, Milly Glenn amongst them. She came just in time, for a woman, with wild black hair floating on the breeze, stood down upon the beach, talking and gesticulating wildly, while a group of well-intentioned individuals stood around her, evidently as obvious of her meaning as though she had spoken an unknown tongue.

"There's Miss Glenn," cried a sailor's wife amongst the number; "p'raps she knows Dutch."

The woman turned to Milly and began: "Vous parles vous Francais, madame?"

"She is French," said Milly. "I think I shall be able to understand her."

Then the wild-eyed woman began her tale:

"There was still another sufferer upon the wreck. A sailor who had been ill. She was sure of it. All had forgotten him, and he had been so good to them—so kind to her little Estelle, so pitiful of the poor babe who had died and was buried in the sea. It was cruel to desert him. Madame would influence the gentlemen; they would send boats to his succor. He was a countryman of madame's own. In an hour it might be too late, for see the poor ship and the awful waves. All the saints in heaven would petition God to bless madame if she would intercede for her poor countryman."

Milly needed no persuading, and as soon as the woman's meaning was understood a boat was manned and left the shore for the wrecked vessel. There, lying insensible, in a sheltered spot of the deck they found, in truth, a man—a tall, broad-shouldered sailor, with an immense black beard falling over his bosom and his face pale as though he had been a corpse.

They brought him to the seaside tavern and laid him in an upper chamber, and stood around him looking at the solemn sight of life so near the verge of death.

All was done that could be, but still he quivered in the balance, and when the sun went down, was lying just as pale and senseless upon his pallet as when they took him from the wreck.

There were others who were almost as bad as he, and some must watch with them all night.

Among them was Milly.

The long room where many a time squeaking fiddle and clattering piano had set merry folks a-dancing looked like a hospital now, with a row of beds adown it and stealthy-footed nurses stealing from pillow to pillow—one or two feeble candles faintly lit the room, and now and then a moan or the muttering of one delirious with fever broke the silence. That night one child died and was borne away to another room.

But the sailor with the flowing beard like black floss silk had not changed for better or worse when dawn broke.

Then the black-haired French woman who had taken part in the nursing, came to Milly with something in her hand.

"Is madame a Catholic?" she said.

"No," said Milly; "I am a Protestant."

"It is a pity," said the woman. "But madame is good—madame will understand—Around the neck of monsieur there, he has worn a holy relic. Perhaps the priest blessed it. I have seen him kiss it often, and I removed it that it might not be lost. Madame will let me tie it about his neck, it may restore him."

Milly stepped back to give the woman room, and then she saw for the first time what she held in her hand.

A broken tenpence strung upon a ribbon of faded blue, with the letter "M" engraved on its surface. That tenpence John Turner had cut in twain 11 years before. A holy relic, indeed; the relic of a love which had endured so long in two unhappy, yet constant bosoms.

"You say he kissed it often?" she said.

"I have seen him," said the woman.

And Milly took it from her and knotted the frayed silk about the bronze throat with her own hands. Then kneeling beside him, she looked into the pallid face and knew it.

The youth with smooth cheeks and red lips like a woman had changed into this black-bearded man. Care had drawn lines upon the brow. Wind and weather had tanned it. Yet it was John Turner—her John; for had he not worn that broken tenpence all these years.

A great flood of joy swept over her heart, and she turned to the wondering Frenchwoman, and from her bosom drew her own half of the coin.

"Look," she said.

And being a woman, she to whom that other woman spoke knew what was meant as well as though long words had been wasted upon the tale. For there are lovers in France as well as in America, and they have parted coins for love-tokens ere now the wide world over.

And in a woman's eyes, and her throbbing bosom, and her changing cheek, another woman can read the light from her own heart the secret that is always our greatest joy or our intensest sorrow.

So after that, without restraint, Milly showered kisses on the pale lids of that frozen face, prayed for his life, laid her pale cheek to his, and clung to him as she might in those old days when the faded ribbon on the broken tenpence was of a bright, true blue.

And still he lay like a statue carved of bronze floating deathward, as it seemed to all. And Milly's kisses could not waken him, nor her prayers move him, and there was no hope for him in any breast but hers; so that it got to be the talk of the whole place how the sea had brought John Turner back to his old love to die, and how she never left him night or day, but sat there with his hands in hers and her eyes fixed upon his face, when the dawn broke and when the sun set—at midnight and at noon.

Only—and here old gossips shook their heads and girls' eyes brimmed over with tears—only to see him die at last.

"But, dear reader, were that the end of my story, I would leave it unwritten, and leave you to guess it for yourself. John Turner did not die. One bright evening he opened his eyes and turned them on the face of Milly, watching so faithfully beside his pillow, and asked faintly:

"Is this heaven?"

To Milly at that moment it seemed so.

And ere the Christmas time came, the old church bells had rung a wedding peal, and Milly Gray and John Turner were made one; and in proof of the long, long, years of remorseful remembrances and weary longing and unfaded constancy, each had but to know that all the while that unbroken tenpence had been worn and treasured by the other.—M. Their gentle action and good effect on the system really make them a perfect little pill. They please those who use them. Carter's Little Liver Pills may well be termed "Perfection."

The boys who have been industriously collecting fuel for election bonfires must have thought that the devil and all his imps were at work on Thursday night, when 50,000 barrels were destroyed in a Jersey City fire.

FOOT BALL.

Olympic Park To Be the Scene of Much Sport.

At the Olympic park, on Saturday next, the people of Toledo will have the opportunity of witnessing a sight that has never occurred before in this city. Two college elevens—one from the east, the other from the west—will meet each other in the favorite fall sport of all colleges, football. The eastern eleven is that of Lehigh, from South Bethlehem, Pa., and the western that of the University of Michigan.

The management of the Michigan team considered for some length of time the advisability of playing a game with any eastern eleven, yet after it had been decided upon to do it, Toledo was at once chosen as the place where the men should meet. Our citizens should show their loyalty to both of these teams by turning out in great numbers to witness the game, which will undoubtedly be a good one. Let every U. of M. man turn out to cheer the wearers of his favorite college colors to victory.

While neither Lehigh nor Michigan have done surprisingly good work this season, the scores of each against Cornell and other teams show that the two elevens' must be very evenly matched. So far this season Lehigh's work has been characterized by steady, strong team work, and the remarkable gains made by her very light line. Michigan's work has been of a quite sharp order, similar to that of the big eastern colleges. Her weak line is made up for by the men behind it. Jewett, the colored half-back, is probably one of the best men in that position to-day. The other half, Leonard and Freundt, are both good gamers, but they are both young at the game. Hartwell has been coaching Lehigh, while Barbour has been coaching Michigan. Both of these men were on Yale's team of last year; hence the style of playing by both elevens is quite similar.

The elevens will line up at 2:30 as follows:

Lehigh.		Michigan.

Houston, 168	Left Tackle	Pearson, 190

Capt. McClung, of the Lehigh team, is a cousin of the Yale McClung. This is his fourth year with the team, and is without doubt the best man in it. He plays a cool-headed, steady game and gives his signals with judgment. This is Oedway's third year on the eleven and Hutchinson's fourth. All of the rest of the men are comparatively new to the team. George Dygert, Michigan's captain and full-back, is on the team for the third time. He tackles low and surely and backs the line well. His punts are fair, though not far-reaching. He is a little slow at times in giving the signals, but is improving. A. W. Jeffries is the center of last year, but this year he is playing at guard. He stands 6 feet 2 inches and is one of the heaviest men on the line. W. W. Pearson, tackle of last year' eleven, fills the same position this years. It is claimed that he makes greater gains with the ball than any other man playing in the same position in the country. R. W. Hayes, right-end, stands 6 feet 1 inch and weighs 190 pounds. He is a good runner, but tackles high. W. W. Griffin is the stockiest man on the line. He stands 5 feet 7 inches and weighs 175 pounds. While playing good ball, he is apt to talk entirely too much. He still has the habit of tackling pretty high. C. T. Griffin, center, weighs 180 pounds. He is a very muscular man, and plays his position well, though not as yet snapping the ball to perfection. This is his first year on the field. Paul Woodworth, left-end, stands 5 feet nine inches. He is active and capable of managing his man. He follows the ball very well, but tackles high. E. T. Sanderson, quarter-back, is 5 feet 9 inches in height. He is the lightest man on the field, weighing but 135 pounds. He passes the ball well, and is quick to catch the meaning of a play. George Jewett, the colored right-half-back, is the fastest runner and best dodger on the team, some of his dodges being indeed phenomenal. He tackles low, but his failing is that he does not follow his interferers. C. T. Thomas, substitute guard, stands 6 feet and weighs 196 pounds. He interferes well, but in the last game or two has let his man through. Frank Decke, tackle, is 5 feet 10 1-2 inches in height. He is quick and strong, one of the best tacklers, and follows the ball well. He runs low and generally makes good gains with the ball. Lawrence C. Gresh, left-hand-bank, is 5 feet 8 inches in height. He kicks the line splendidly, interferes well and always follows his blockers. On account of an injury received some days ago he has not been out on the field, but he will resume his place in a week or ten days. Ray Freundt and Herman Leonard, the substitute half-backs, both buck the line well, dodge well, and can be depended upon to gain ground.

She is taken care of by her eldest daughter, Mrs. Mabry, who is 87 years of age.

Asbury church, New York, has ceased to compete with the saloons in the free-lunch trade. It had fed the hungry and homeless for years with coffee and sandwiches—not out of charity, but with an expectation of payment in the form of conversions. Disappointed in this expectation, is has decided to let the tramps go hungry this winter.—Philadelphia Record.

New Jersey comes to the front with a strawberry plant which bears fruit all the year, and Arkansas with a 3-year-old negro boy who killed a rattlesnake just twice as old as himself, inside of which was found a water-moccasin over four feet long, a blacksnake of the same length, two dead toads and one live one, besides a large bull-frog. Again it is proper to remark that this is a great country.—New York World.

A Maori whose requests for blankets had at last elicited a decided refusal from the missionary, exclaimed: "Kapai (good); no more blankets, no more hallelujahs," and thereupon returned to the faith of his fathers. No less humorous, though in another way, was the plea of a Maori in litigation for a peice of land. Being called on to tell the court on what proof he relied for his title, he pointed to the rival claimant and said simply: "I ate his father."

Some practical joker has been harrowing the feelings of Stockton's superstitious citizens of late by prowling around town after dark in the habiliments of an orthodox ghost. The other night, however, the uncanny visitor appeared once too often, and while practicing some of its most ghostly antics a strong right-hander planted squarely in the face by a young passer-by named Sutherland caused it to turn a back somersault and to swear in a manner extremely unspiritualistic.—San Francisco Call.

Xavier Marmier, the French academician who died recently, was fond of quiet and solitude, and had simple tastes. For the last twenty years he was a vegetarian, or rather a hater of flesh, feeding only on eggs and salads, washed down with a little wine and water. It was perhaps this sobriety which helped him to attain to the ripe age of eighty-four, for he was not naturally robust. When he grew too infirm to walk his wheel-chair used to take him about to the second-hand bookstalls, which he was fond of visiting.

It is not likely that the limits of microscopic life have yet been ascertained. The most powerful microscopes made render barely visible many organisms so minute that their shapes can not be distinguished, and there is no reason to doubt that others, still smaller, exist, which the most powerful glass fails to make visible. For all we know, the progress of life downward may continue to infinity, and the smallest animalcula yet seen may be pestered by parasites that, to it, bear the same relation in size that a flea does to a man.

Professional men seem to have an idea that it is well to make out the bill for a sufficient amount. Then they can meet the court reductions which almost always follow. Dr. C. L. Ellingwood, of San Francisco, charged the estate of Walter S. Hobart $30,000 for his medical attendance for twelve months on Mr. and Mrs. Hobart, and, although the heirs, three minors, petitioned the court to allow the claim, Judge Levy cut it down to $10,000, remarking that the heirs will in a few years obtain free control of the estate and can then pay the remainder if they see fit to do so.

Herr Thorodesen announces that he has found "a very long lake," stretching from the margin of the mighty glacier which forms the western side of the Vatna-Jokull in Iceland. It is milk white, from the glacier water of which it is composed, and has been named the Langsjor. The scenery around it is described as very beautiful, though the discoverer adds that "vegetation is quite absent." On the other side of the chain which terminates the lake in the south there is an extensive plateau, on which was seen the glitter of a large watercourse, probably the Skapta, and far to the south some great lava stream, dating, probably from the 1783 eruption.

VOICE OF THE PEOPLE.

A False Statement.

To the Editor: In reply to A. N.'s letter in last night's Bee, I ould like to say that A. N. is either grievously misinformed or wilfully ignorant, probably the former, as the statement in an evening paper that a vote taken in the Political Equality club on the subject of corporal punishment, resulted in a majority of nine in favor of it is false.

The fact is a mixed vote of members and non-members of the club was taken, resulting in a majority of one in favor of corporal punishment, wisely administered.

The vote was not in any sense an indorsement by the club, the majority of the members voting against it.

It is a pity people will insist on talking knowingly of majorities and pluralities without the slightest knowledge of the meaning of the terms.

However, the indorsement of the club of anything which a majority of its members favor, would certainly count.

The opinions of 75 intelligent women have weight.

The Political Equality club will continue in the future, as in the past, to use its influence for intellectual advancement, assured that such influence has weight in spite of malicious and senseless innuendoes.

FROM THE BACKWOODS.

He was a country fellow from away up the creek and paid a visit to the country town accompanied by his wife. He drove up to the side entrance of the hotel, left his mule and rockaway at the door, took the lady in, and followed a hall along until he came to the office.

"Anybody here keep a tavern?" he inquired, sticking his head in the door.

"Yes, I do," responded the landlord, coming forward.

"Can I git stoppin' here over night, fer me an' the old woman?"

The landlord informed him that he could.

"I've got a mule and a rockaway outside," he went on. "Kin you keep them, too?"

"Oh, yes, we've got a nice livery stable attached to the house."

"Good enough; I'll stop with you."

"Well, step this way please, and register," and the landlord got behind the counter and shoved the book out.

The guest approached it cautiously.

"Got to do any writin'?" he inquired, nervously.

"Not much, only your name and whoever is with you."

"It's safe enough to do it, I reckon?" he half inquired, taking up the pen awkwardly.

"Certainly," said the landlord, assuringly. "All the guests do it."

"What have I got to write?"

"The name, where from, and so forth."

The guest wrestled with the pen for a minute or two, sticking his tongue out about two inches in his efforts to get it straight, and shoved the book back again.

"Thar, that's what you want, I reckon."

The landlord looked at it and with a soft and sunny smile said it would do.

The guest had written:

"John Bigley, mule and rockaway and wife, Bigleyville, Perry County, Ky., and so forth."—Detroit Free Press.

RHEUMATISM PREVALENT.

Caused by the Sudden Changes of Temperature.

PEOPLE WHO HAVE FOUND RELIEF.

Rheumatism is more prevalent here than ever before.

When this disease fastens upon an individual with its soreness and pain, swelling the joints, rendering him helpless in his movements, and shattering his usefulness, he is indeed an object of pity.

The slight pain in the back, pain or stiffness of the joints or muscles, is a warning indication of an improvished condition of the blood, a low state of health, and if not attended to at once, means rheumatism.

Rheumatism can now be relieved and cured.

Since the introduction of Favorite Remedy, by Dr. David Kennedy, of Rondout, N. Y., there has been fewer sufferers than ever before.

Favorite Remedy drives out rheumatic poison from the blood, restores the circulation, strengthens the nerve power.

The best proof of its value is the good it has done.

"I was afflicted with inflammatory rheumatism for fifteen years, writes Mr. E. P. Tayer, of East Nassau, N. Y. So severe that I was supposed to be a cripple for life. Under physicians treatment I grew worse. Dr. Kennedy's Favorite Remedy helped me from the time I first used it, and entirely cured me. Have felt no trace of the disease since, and that was three years ago."

The beautiful daughter of Mr. James McFarland, of DeMoines, Ia., was helpless for months with sciatic rheumatism. After a few doses of Dr. Kennedy's Favorite Remedy, she began to grow better, appetite improved, slept well, and continuing its use, was cured.

"I was confined to my bed with rheumatism near my heart, writes Mr. C. L. Seaver, of Birmingham, Conn., and used Dr. Kennedy's Favorite Remedy but a short while before it drove the rheumatism out of my system."

Mr. G. Lansing, of Troy, N. Y., had rheumatism so bad that he had to be turned over in bed. After using Dr. Kennedy's Favorite Remedy but a short while was restored to health.

What reason then for suffering with rheumatism or neuralgia. This medicine will help you if given a trial.

CURED

"About seven or eight months ago I was attacked by a cough, and at once began to take a medicine much advertised as an expectorant, and continued using it until I had taken about six bottles. Instead of giving me relief, it only made me worse. I tried several other remedies, but all in vain, and I don't think I had three whole nights' rest during my illness. I began to think that I am thankful, however, to say that it cured me, and I am to-day enjoying the best of health."—J. Wilmot Payne, Monrovia, Liberia.

GIRLS IN A FIRE COMPANY.

Protectors of an English College Building Worth Millions of Dollars.

One of the most interesting things about the Holloway College for Women, in Surrey, is the fire brigade of girl students, who are trained to protect the magnificent $4,000,000 building from the possibility of destruction by fire. From a large water tower the hydrant supply is distributed by water mains all over the vast building, and last October the fire brigade was regularly organized, with Miss Bishop, the principal, as captain. In describing their methods of work a correspondent of the Philadelphia Press says: The "Holloway Volunteer Brigade" formed in three sections of 10 students each, these representing the occupants of different floors. They were drawn up in line at "Right turn! Quick march! Position!" Then each section went quite through with two full drills. A fire in sitting-room No. 10 was supposed. At command: "Get to work" the engine was run down to the doorway, a "chain" of recruits was formed to the nearest source of water supply, and the buckets were handed in line that the engine might be kept in full play. The engine pump was vigorously applied by two girls, while another worked the small hand hose quickly and ingeniously, so that the engine was in full speed in less than a minute. When the drill was concluded with the orders: "Knock off" and "Make up!" everything had been put in its own place.

Then came the "hydrant drill," which was conducted at the hydrant nearest the point of a supposed outbreak of fire. In this six students from each section took part. Directly the alarm was given 100 feet of canvas hose was run out and an additional length (regulated, of course, by the distance) was joined to it. At the words "Turn on!" by the officer known as the "branch hoseman," the hose was directed so that had there been water in it it must have streamed on to the supposed fire. This drill was also accomplished in only a minute, and at the command "Knock off!" and "Make up!" the hose pipes were quickly disconnected, the pipe that is always kept attached to the hydrant was "slacked down" and an extra 100 feet was "coiled up" on the bight with astonishing rapidity.

THE PARISIENNES.

All women are born distinguished, according to Michelet's theory; whether they become eventually more refined or whether they relapse into vulgarity depends on the surroundings amidst which they grow up. The Parisiennes have, above all other women, an innate gift of synthesis and a love of order and rhythm which produce all the graces and even the sublime grace of virtue; they fashion for themselves the kind of beauty that they desire even out of the poorest materials—witness Rachel, whom nature made ugly, and art and will made admirably beautiful. Nature has given women but about five years of true youth and beauty, and yet by means of some prodigious magic, the Parisienne obliges her youth to last 30 years. Furthermore, as she has a knowledge of everything by intuition and without studying, like the grand seigneurs of old, her conversation is in itself a liberal education.

The Parisienne knows her own worth and the worth of other women, for in Paris a spontaneous and impeccable justice reigns over the souls of men and women alike; each one knows who is the true hero and who the amusing imposter, and to each one is allotted the honor or contempt which is his or her due. Therefore, it is not the fact of having been born in some historic mansion of the Rue de Varennes that makes a Parisian woman a princess or a duchess in the true sense of the term, but rather the splendor of her visage, the sincerity of her look, the grace of her bearing, and the beauty and fine proportions of her form. The princesses of Paris come as often from the Faubourg Saint Germain, and they owe their beauty as much to their own genius and to the perpetual desire to be beautiful, as to the accidental gift of nature. That magnificent poetry of feminine life, dress, is the creation of the princesses of Paris, whose inventiveness and taste in all that concerns tiring enable them to give laws to the universe in all matters of fashion.—From "Along the Parisian Boulevards," by Theodore Child, in Harper's Magazine for November.

MOTHERS! MOTHERS!

It soothes the child, softens the gums, allays all pain; cures wind colic, and is the best remedy for diarrhoea. Sold by druggists in every part of the world. Be sure and ask for "Mrs. Winslow's Soothing Syrup," and take no other kind. Twenty-five cents a bottle.

THE SEX OF THE MOON.

Various Ideas Entertained in Regard to It by Different Nations.

In archaic times the moon was regarded as a male god. "Primitive man," says a well known writer, "saw the moon as a most conspicuous object, whose spots at periods had the semblance of a man's face, waxing and waning increased their wonder, whose coming and going among the still and solemn night added to the mystery until, from being viewed as a man, it was seated, especially when apparently angry, in a mist or an eclipse, and so reverenced and worshiped as the heaven-man—the monthly god."

We learn from Max Muller that "moon" is a very old word and in Anglo-Saxon, where it was used as a masculine and not feminine, was "mona." In all the Teutonic languages the sun was feminine, and it is only through the influence of classical models that in England moon has been changed into feminine and the sun into masculine. Even in comparatively recent times the Germans were fond of calling the sun and moon "Frau Sonne" and "Herr Mond." The practice prevailed in ancient Egypt.

"Another reason," says Sir Gardner Wilkinson, "that the moon in Egyptian mythology could not be related to Bubastis is that it is a male and not a female deity, personified in the god Thoth. This was the case in some religions of the west. The Romans recognized the god Lunus and the Germans, like the Arabs, considered the moon masculine and not feminine, as were the Selene and Luna of the Greeks and Romans." In Slavonic, as in Teutonic mythology, the moon is male.—Pearson's Weekly.

Bishop Fowler, of the Methodist Episcopal church, created a sensation in St. James' church, New York, on Sunday, by preaching a dramatic sermon on "Death." Many bereaved men and women in the congregation were so pained and offended by the performance that they left the church without waiting for the fall of the curtain.

THE ECONOMY OF TREES.

How This Class of Vegetation Repairs the Injury Which May Have Been Done to It.

The well known power which many plants possess of developing adventitious roots from almost any part, when placed under favorable conditions, is manifested in a somewhat extraordinary manner by several trees recently brought to the notice of botanists.

In the bulletin of the Torrey Botanical club for August, 1891, the present writer published an account of a linden growing in Boston, Mass., where it had been subject to injury from horses gnawing the bark, and in consequence had a considerable portion of the trunk decayed. At the edge of the wound the cambium had formed a callus, and from a point in this living tissue there proceeded several vigorous roots which penetrated the decaying wood in all directions, evidently finding a rich soil.

Subsequent issues of the bulletin have contained descriptions of several other examples of trees exhibiting a similarly economical utilization of the products of their own decay. These include swamp maples, a Norway maple, a willow and a white mulberry. In an English paper appeared not long ago an account of an oak which had "sustained itself for years by a mass of roots grown into its own trunk!"

In one of the swamp maples observed by L. M. Stabler at Great Neck, L. I., the primary injury apparently resulted from a storm which split and twisted the trunk. One of the adventitious roots "at least two inches in diameter, started as high as ten feet above the base of the trunk and passed down through the decayed portion to the ground."—F. L. Sargent in the Popular Science Monthly for November.

ONE WOMAN'S DAY.

It Is That of a Resident Teacher in a Young Ladies' Boarding School.

Heard in five hours 10 recitations, embracing Latin, rhetoric, literature and mathematics, and superintended two drawing classes and writing.

Walked twice with the young ladies and sat with them through three sudy hours.

Read aloud to them half an hour and danced 15 minues with them.

Ordered meals for two girls who were ill and visited both.

Made and applied one mustard plaster.

Rang for a messenger boy and dispatched a package.

Showed one girl how to trim her second best hat; another how to mend her gown, and crimped the hair of a third.

Spent 10 minutes trying to comfort a home-sick child and 10 more sopping up spilled ink.

Inerviewed three anxious mammas concerning three abnormally bright daughters but all peculiarly constituted and requiring careful treatment.

In the hour devoted to rest and relaxaion shouted "Come in!" 16 times to 16 girls, who wanted anything and everything from the solving of a problem to knowing the hour and borrowing the scissors.

Went down three flights of stairs to express an opinion on the "hang" of the new parlor curtains.

Talked with two teachers in search of situations, and evidently envious of so desirable a one.

Made one bed and saw that 16 others were made.

Wrote to a dry goods firm ordering samples for a country friend.

Wrote a brisk and cheerful letter home.

Said "yes" and "no" at the right time, and smiled when it was expected.

Dressed and undressed twice, and incidentally ate two and one-half meals.

Saw that 16 girls were duly bandaged and plastered and watered and in bed with the lights out at 9:30 p. m.

Corrected nine compositions.

Hauled out a folding-bed and dropped in.

Angostura Bitters are known all over the world as the great regulator of digestive organs. Dr. Siegert's is the only genuine. At all druggists.

A CANINE MAIL CARRIER.

A little postoffice near Witmer's, on the main line of the Pennsylvania railroad, enjoys the unique distinction of being the only office in the country wherein a dog officiates as assistant postmaster, says the Philadelphia Record. Postmaster Musselman's canine assistant is a little St. Charles spaniel called Beauty, upon whom has developed for five years the task of bringing from Witmer's station, a half mile distant, the bundle of morning papers from Philadelphia. Two bundles, a large and a small one, are thrown off at the station. Regularly every morning Beauty trots over the fields to the station and patiently awaits the arrival of the train. When the two bundles are thrown off Beauty seizes the smaller one in her mouth and trots directly home. She never makes a mistake, always taking the small bundle; neither does she loiter along by the roadside, but covers the distance between Witmer's and the crossroads postoffice at a speed that would almost do credit to Nancy Hanks herself. Beauty has been assistant postmaster almost since her birth, and could hardly be replaced.

KEEP FROM SCOWLING.

A great many earnest thinkers of a nervous temperament fall into the habit of scowling when they read, write or talk seriously. This causes tow little perpendicular lines to plough in between the eyes, and ages a face 10 years.

It is a habit almost impossible to correct, once formed, as it is done unconsciously by many young people.

A studious young woman, still in her early twenties, found herself the victim of this scowl, which had already made two fine hair lines in her brow.

She set herself to work to cure the habit by setting the mirror before her face when she read, wrote or studied; but as this attracted her attention from her work, she finally placed a ribbon band tightly across her brow, tying it in a knot at the back of her head, and at night she slept in the band.

After several months the lines disappeared from her pretty forehead, and she is quite cured of the disfiguring habit.

READING THE LINES AT THE WRIST.

The rascette, or magic bracelet, is, according to the authorities on palmistry, to be found at the base of the hand, and forms the line or lines which mark the junction of hand and wrist. One such line if unbroken, deep and strongly marked, is supposed to foretell a happy life and to indicate calmness of disposition; if the line is chained, that is, crossed and recrossed by numerous small lines, the indication is of a life of labor. Two such lines indicate happiness and long life, while three form the magic bracelet, adding great riches to the other blessings. The addition of the third line to the other two is rare. Desbarroles, the great authority on palmistry, found it in only three cases, in all of which the outward indications seemed to confirm the omen.

THE JAPANESE EAGER TO ACQUIRE ENGLISH.

As a proof of the manner in which the civilization of the west is seizing hold on Japan and all that is Japanese, it is stated that in a private mission school in the town of Kiota there were 400 Japanese women. Ten years ago the fathers of these girls looked upon them as slaves, or at the best as upper servants. Now they strain every nerve to give them a liberal education. Even young husbands are sending their girl wives to school. The craze to learn English is universal. The cooly will offer to work for an English-speaking master for the price of two pounds of rice a day, if he will only talk to him in English.

A MONKEY'S REVENGE.

The following anecdote clearly illustrates the reasoning power of the monkey tribe: One was kept tied to a stake in the suburbs of Havana, in a place where he was repeatedly robbed of his food by crows. One day he laid still on the ground, pretending to be dead. The crows were allowed to steal to their heart's content until the artful simian was sure they were in reach. Instantly he grabbed one by the leg, and despite its loud calls for help, literally plucked every feather from the luckless bird and then flung it toward its screaming companions.

"FAIR TO SEE."

The girl with a very fair face and golden hair continues to be the fashion. The brunette is distinctive as "handsome" and "elegant," but a poetical witchery clings to the blonde. A prominent French critic on "ethics of beauty" says that the "lovely types" of the human face are essentially blonde. He adds that the blonde can dress more effectively than the brunette, and that, taking good care of her charms, she has 10 years the advantage in youthful looks. It is noticeable that in the current novels published during the last year there are 382 blondes to 82 brunettes.

Do not permit the refuse cabbage leaves and the soft and unsalable heads to waste in the field. They are excellent food for all kinds of stock. Feed them in the stall, if possible, so that all will be utilized. If not, turn the stock in the field as soon as you have removed the good heads—before the rest begin to decay.
